FEDERAL JUDGE MAY APPEAR AT HOUSE HEARIING

Walter Lindley Asks Subcommittee For Audience

By Gerald Miller
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The house judiciary committee, having already voted 15 to 5 to recommend the impeachmen of District Judge Charles E. Woodward, will meet tomorrow to consider what its members said was a "delicate matter" concerning the bankruptcy administrations in the Chicago federal courts.

The exact nature of this "delicate matter" was left officially unexplained, but it was later learned from the members that Samuel Ettelson, former corporation counsel of Chicago and at one time attorney for the Insull interests, had asked to appear.

Wants Audience

At the same time it was said the judge, Walter C. Lindley, another of the judges whose administration had been investigated by the McKeown subcommittee, had asked for an audience.

Chairman Sumners (D. Tex.) said he was without knowledge that either Lindley or Ettleson would be heard.

"However," he added, "other members of the committee might have arranged this; and, of course, whatever they do will probably be agreed to."

Lindley, Woodward, and Judge James H. Wilkerson were named in the McKeown report as having administered bankruptcy receivership cases in a manner "open to criticism."

While Lindley ordinarily sits at Danville, Ill., it was his appearances on Chicago benches that drew the attention of the McKeown subcommittee.

The exact nature of the charges to be brought against Woodward was not disclosed by Sumners; nor would he make known how the committee members voted on the resolution.

"We based the resolution," Summers explained, "upon the report of the subcommittee. We have not yet drawn up our bill of specifications.

"That, together with the formal resolution, and possibly a minority report, will be reported to the house as soon as we can get them together."

Summers said the committee probably would vote on Friday on resolutions concerning Lindley and Wilkerson.

While Summers refused to say whether the Woodward resolution would be called up for house action at once, or whether it would be delayed until the committee disposed of the two other cases, Speaker Rainey said the impeachment matter would have the right-of-way.

"It must be disposed of within the next two weeks," he said. "Should the house sustain the committee's action it will be necessary to inform the president so that he may prepare to call a special session of the senate."

Reversing his previous stand, the speaker said it would not be necessary for the house to remain in session during the senate's impeachment proceedings, should the house vote articles of impeachment.

While members of the committee appeared reluctant to discuss the Woodward case, several of them said they had found "nothing of substance" in the income tax reports which they had ordered from the treasury department a week ago.

John G. Moore of Sinclair was a business caller here yesterday.

WEATHER

Jacksonville and vicinity:—Partly cloudy to cloudy and cooler weather is predicted for this territory today. Friday will be generally fair and somewhat warmer.

BODY OF YOUTH FOUND IN BAY IS IDENTIFIED

Mysterious Telephone Call Being Traced By Police

San Francisco, May 23.—(AP)—A body found in the bay here Jan. 11, was identified by fingerprints late today as that of Arne V. Gandy, 3rd, member of a wealthy New York family, as police attempted to trace a mysterious long-distance telephone call which had informed the youth's parents he was about to undergo an operation.

The body of the youth, which had been buried in potters field, was identified after his father, Arne V. Gandy, Jr., a wealthy publisher associated with Barron Collier, had obtained his son's fingerprints and informed San Francisco police of the boy's disappearance and a weird early morning telephone call.

Receive Call

Gandy said his wife had been aroused at 4 a. m. last Jan. 10, by the call.

"My wife answered the telephone but did not awaken me," Gandy told police here. "Because of the difficulty she had in hearing the strange voice and the static on the wire, she heard only bits of a strange conversation.

"'The kid is here and for God's sake forgive him and give him another chance,' the mysterious voice pleaded.

"My wife urgently demanded that the speaker give his name, and she was greeted by a strange laugh.

"'Here I am, piled up on pillows,' said another voice, and then there was strange, hollow laughter, and a confusion of voices over the telephone.

"The caller did not say who 'the kid' was, but then he apparently turned to someone else and remarked, 'when do we operate, doctor?'

"And then someone else answered, 'right now.'

"Again my wife demanded the caller's name, and he said, 'the boy is coming home now, he's all right. But please forgive him. Will you forgive him?'"

Gandy, who resides at Teaneck, N. J., said at the time he considered the matter a joke but when his son did not communicate with him he informed police and obtained the boy's finger prints from the U. S. Shipping Bureau, where young Gandy had been employed.

Less than a day after the strange call from here, the body of a youth was found at pier 42. It was unclothed and showed evidence of having been in the water some time.

Later young Gandy was traced to San Francisco and it was learned he had visited the Dollar Steamship company here, seeking a position on a round-the-world vessel. He had come here as a second assistant steward on the President Harrison.

Police said there were no marks on the body of Gandy, who was 20 years old. They said they believed he might have been the victim of an accident, but they were endeavoring to solve the mysterious telephone call.

HAMER TELLS HOW CLYDE BARROW WAS CAUGHT IN "TRAP"

Former Texas Ranger Says "We Shot The Devil Out of Them"

St. Louis, May 23.—(AP)—"We just shot the devil out of them."

Thus Frank Hamer, former Texas ranger captain, today described in a telephone interview with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the slaying near Arcadia, La., of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

"Sure," he said, "I can tell you what happened this morning.

We just shot the devil out of them, that's all. That's all there was to it. We just laid a trap for them. A steel trap. You know, Bessemer steel, like gun barrels are made of.

"There were six of us, two deputy sheriffs from Dallas, a Texas state highway patrolman, Sheriff Henderson Jordan of Arcadia and his deputy, Mr. Oakley, and myself.

"We were hiding beside the road. All six of us on one side—we didn't want any cross-fire—and when they came along we hollered at them to stop. They both reached for their guns, but were kind of slow. They didn't get to fire a shot. The car smashed into an embankment after we fired. Clyde was driving when we tried to stop them. Bonnie was sitting beside him.

"Now don't, please, put it in your paper that I'm with the rangers. I'm not. I was for 27 years, but when they elected a woman governor, (former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson), I quit. That was on Nov. 1, 1932, just before she took office."

Hamer said he had been searching for Barrow and Bonnie Parker for the last six months. He said he had been employed by a law officer to take the search but declined to say what agency employed him "because there's some other tough-shooting fellows I may be hired to go after."

(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press).

Arcadia, La., May 23.—Clyde Barrow, notorious Texas outlaw, and his cigar-smoking gunwoman, Bonnie Parker, were ambushed and shot to death near here today in a sensational encounter with a posse led by an oldtime Texas ranger.

The law-mocking desperado, whizzing along the Jamestown-Sailes road, a little used highway at 85 miles an hour, ran right into a trap set for him after having been lured into the state by a relative of a convict, who promised protection.

Before he or Bonnie Parker could get their guns into action, the officers riddled them with bullets.

Barrow's car, running wild, careened from the road and smashed into an embankment. As the wheels spun, the posse continued to fire until the car was almost shot to pieces.

The body of the gunman, who four years ago was a minor hoodlum scarcely known outside of Dallas, was found slumped behind the steering wheel, a revolver in one hand.

Woman Had Machine Gun

Bonnie Parker died with her head between her knees. She still was clutching the machine gun.

"We killed Clyde and Bonnie at 9:15 this morning," reported Ted Hinton, one of the Texas officers, to the sheriff's office in Dallas. "They were at Black Lake, a hideout we had been watching for weeks."

Fred Hamer, former captain of the Texas rangers, who had been waiting in the brush for days for Barrow to come by on his regular run, added:

"Clyde and Bonnie did not get to fire a shot. Their car was full of guns and ammunition, but they did not get a chance to use them."

Barrow had been lured into northwest Louisiana, through arrangement with officers, for what he thought was a rendezvous with an underworld friend near Ringgold.

A relative of an escaped convict and former member of Barrow's southwest gang, working with the authorities, had promised him protection at his home.

As the officers fired, Barrow opened a door of his small gray sedan and attempted to raise his gun. So did Bonnie Parker, but both were shot before they could pull the trigger.

In the wrecked car were three army rifles, two sawed-off shotguns, a dozen pistols and large quantities of ammunition, besides Bonnie Parker's machine gun. The bodies were left temporarily in the automobile awaiting the coroner's arrival.

Then the officers towed Barrow's car with the bodies into Arcadia. Barrow's head was hanging out the window and the woman's body was bent as if she had been trying to duck the officers' fire.

Throngs of curious residents—estimated at 2,000—came to view the car.

While the law was scoring this victory in Louisiana, Evelyn Frechette, friend of the fugitive John Dillinger, and Dr. Clayton May, convicted of harboring the Indiana criminal, were sentenced in St. Paul, Minn., to two years in prison and were fined $1,000.

In Chicago, James Lacey and Benjamin Wolfram pleaded guilty to the attempted abduction of Emanuel Philip Adler, Davenport, Iowa, newspaper publisher.

With Hamer and Hinton in the ambush near here were B. M. Gault, highway patrolman; Bob Alcorn of Dallas county, Texas, and Louisiana officers.

Sheriff Jordan of Bienville parish said he had received a tip that the First National Bank of Arcadia was to be robbed on Wednesday or Thursday and immediately had notified Texas officers.

Barrow came from Benton, La., yesterday afternoon and passed through Gibsland, La., about 4 o'clock and again this morning, Jordan said. Jordan and his deputy, Paul M. Oakley, were waiting at the top of the hill with the Texans.

In Dallas, Mrs. Henry Barrow, mother of Barrow, cried in anguish.

"And, I prayed only last night," she sobbed, "that I might see him alive again, just once more."

Barrow's father, working at his filling station, west of Dallas, made only one remark. He said he guessed his wife would be going to Louisiana.

Bonnie Parker's mother, Mrs. Emma Parker, also a resident of Dallas, fainted when informed by telephone of her daughter's death.

Bit by bit, Hamer, one of the best known peace officers in Texas, and his aides had pieced together a map of the highways Barrow was in the habit of using. Several weeks ago they barely missed the outlaw and his companion in this same section.

PLEADS GUILTY

St. Louis, May 23.—(AP)—Manuel C. Lopez, former chauffeur for Louis Hager, Jr., son-in-law of the late August A. Busch, St. Louis brewer, pleaded guilty today to attempting to extort $5,000 from his ex-employer.

Andrew Haime, under indictment with Lopez, was mute in federal court and a "not guilty" plea was entered for him.

A third defendant in the case, George Cubana, pleaded not guilty. All of the men are Filipinos. Haime and Lopez were arrested in New Orleans, Cubana in St. Louis.

Judge Charles B. Davis deferred sentence on Lopez. Notes were received by Hager last September threatening the kidnaping of his 3-year-old son if $5,000 was not paid.

Arenzville was represented here yesterday by Miss Bernice Wringler.

ASSOCIATES OF JOHN DILLINGER ARE CONVICTED

Evelyn Frechette And Dr. Clayton Given Prison Terms

St. Paul, May 23.—(AP)—The law today won against two more associates of Desperado John Dillinger, while the outlaw himself roamed free, outside its clutches.

A federal court jury convicted Evelyn Frechette, his sweetheart, and Dr. Clayton May, Minneapolis physician, of conspiracy to hide the fugitive, and sentenced each to a prison term of two years and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Mrs. Augusta Salt, in whose apartment Dr. May was alleged to have treated Dillinger after he was wounded in escaping March 31 from an apartment here while he lived with Miss Frechette, was acquitted.

Pleads Guilty

Mrs. Beth Green, indicted with the three whose case was concluded today, this afternoon was sentenced to fifteen months in prison. She pleaded guilty several days before the trial started.

Miss Frechette and Dr. May were granted a week's stay of execution and their attorneys announced an appeal would be taken soon to the circuit court of appeals.

The half-Indian girl, who was arrested in Chicago and admitted accompanying Dillinger on several of his raids, and who said she planned to marry him, heard the decision without show of emotion. She refused to comment. Dr. May, however, said he was "surprised."

The jury deliberated seven hours. Dr. May and Mrs. Salt admitted on the witness stand during the trial they had treated the notorious fugitive, but asserted they did so in fear of their life. Miss Frechette's attorney pleaded that she be sent back to an Indian reservation.

The two women will serve their terms in the women's reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., while Dr. May will be sent to an undesignated federal prison.

Mrs. Green was arrested the night of April 3 when government agents fatally wounded her husband, Eugene Green, a Dillinger gang member.

She admitted renting for Dillinger and Miss Frechette the Lexington avenue apartment they lived in here. Her husband arranged with Dr. May for the treatment of Dillinger.

NEW DEAL BASED UPON TENETS OF CHRIST, CLAIM

Secretary Ickes Is Speaker Before Churchmen

By R. R. Tryon
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cleveland, May 23.—(AP)—National leaders of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. were told tonight the "new deal" in the government is based on the fundamental tenets of Christ, himself. The speaker was Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Addressing a public meeting here, sponsored by the church's general council, Ickes pictured the social objectives of Christianity and the new deal as being identical.

"Christ wanted men and women to live upright lives, but he also wanted them to have for each other understanding and good will and mutual helpfulness," the secretary said. "He wished them to be good neighbors. He hated injustice with a righteous hatred. His whole life was a fight against oppression. This was the man who drove out the money changers from the temple."

Church Can Aid

Asserting the new deal is an opportunity for the church to aid in a Christian work, the secretary then inquired, "will the leaders in the church follow the banner which has been boldly raised by President Roosevelt in his determination to establish social and economic justice so far as lies within the power of man, wholeheartedly or only reluctantly?"

The answer to this question, he said, "is important because if the moral aspirations of the church should reenforce the political efforts now being made to establish a new social order, the advance all along the line would be irresistible and that new social and economic order, certain as it is to be realized in the mend in any event, would be accomplished much more quickly and with infinitely less disturbance."

The "new deal," he said, "is grounded on the theory that one should do unto others what he would that others should do unto him."

He listed among the administration's objectives the adoption of the constitutional amendment abolishing child labor, fair wages, an end of sweatshops and unhealthy working conditions, a clean-up of slum areas, "an end to wasteful and disregardful exploitation of our natural resources," the adoption of old age, unemployment, maternity and disability insurance, and the assessment of taxes in proportion to the ability to pay.

PLANES RACE TO ASSISTANCE OF MILLIONAIRE

William A. Robinson Is Stricken On His Yacht

Washington, May 23—(AP)—The navy was informed tonight that the condition of William Albert Robinson, stricken with appendicitis aboard his yacht at Tagus Cove of the Galapagos Islands, was too critical for an immediate operation.

Lieutenant Commander Herman H. Halland, in charge of the navy planes which raced to aid the suffering engineer and explorer, reported by radio that Robinson would be placed aboard the destroyer Hale and taken to Balboa.

The Hale is now enroute to Tagus Cove and will speed directly for Balboa as soon as the planes bearing the medical officers to Robinson's assistance have been refueled. Mrs. Robinson will accompany her husband.

Sends Message

Halland's message said:

"Plane detachment arrived Tagus Cove 6:40 P. M. medical officers examined patient and report condition critical. Probable ruptured appendix, with general peritonitis. Immediate operation not advisable due to patient's general condition. Upon arrival of Hale will transfer patient with medical officers to Hale and send to Balboa after planes are serviced. Mrs. Robinson will return in Hale."

The quickly executed flight, accomplished with the aid of two destroyers which set out from Coco Solo ahead of the planes, was the response of the American navy to the frantic appeal of Mrs. Robinson.

Quick action followed the relaying of the appeal to Washington yesterday and the planes set out at 6:40 A. M. eastern standard time, today, arriving 12 hours and five minutes later. The unusual operations were in charge of Commander R. P. Molten, in charge of the Coco Solo naval air base.

The navy aircraft carried medical supplies and two physicians, Lieutenant Commander Rollo W. Hutchinson and Lieutenant Commander Herman H. Halland.

Meanwhile the socialite bride of the critically stricken globe trotter gave emergency treatment to her husband by applying ice packs, available only because of the fishing trawler Santa Cruz, which carries refrigerator equipment, came close enough to the tropical Archipelago Monday night to see her distress signals.

It was through the wireless of the Trawler that the outside world was told of the plight of the noted traveler and his bride, who started a 4,200 mile honeymoon voyage in their little honeymoon Ketch Svaat last June from the Atlantic coast.

The Ketch was anchored in Tagus Bay of Albermarle Island, largest of the Archipelago, when Robinson was stricken. The isolated Archipelago, a little world by itself that was described a hundred years ago by Charles Darwin as a paradise for naturalists, could furnish nothing for treatment. Mrs. Robinson set up a distress signal and the Santa Cruz responded.

A Los Angeles hospital wirelessed back to the bride, instructing her to quiet as possible.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Bismarck, N. D., May 23.—(AP)—Pleas of not guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct operation of an act of Congress were entered in federal court this afternoon by Governor William Langer and seven of eight co-defendants arraigned with him, after which the defense asked for a continuance of from ten to 30 days because of the illness of one defendant, State Senator Oscar E. Erickson.

Mrs. Robert Black of Carrollton was calling on friends in the city Wednesday.

MANY PRIVATE INDUSTRIES TO GET U. S. AID

Industry Loan Bill Is Passed By The House

By Clarence M. Wright
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Congress decided today the federal government, through the reserve banks and the RFC, should be in a position to give at least a $440,000,000 financial lift to private industries.

The House, after shunting aside a score of amendments to let the new loans cover everything from cities to private schools and hospitals, finished two days of hard work by passing and sending back to the Senate the administration's industry loan bill.

The Senate had approved a bill fixing the maximum total RFC five-year loans at $250,000,000 and limiting the amount the twelve federal reserve banks could advance to $280,000,000.

But the House discarded the Senate provisions and inserted its own, which increase the RFC total to $300,000,000 and cut the reserve bank maximum to $140,000,000.

Bill To Conference

The Senate will send the bill to conference for a compromise of the differences.

Immediately after passing the Industry Loan measure, the House took up another administration bill—that postponing the permanent deposit insurance plan until July 1, 1935. Leaders expect to pass that tomorrow.

In its two days of debate, the House made only six consequential changes in the industry loan bill. Most were adopted today. They would:

Allow the RFC to lend up to a total of $75,000,000 to school districts which can offer good security. One of the things for which this could be used would be to pay salaries due school teachers.

Stipulate that the federal export-import-banking corporation shall submit annual reports to congress. Representative Goss (R-Conn) said the amendment would require such reports from all federally-owned corporations already in existence and not covered by an especial law.

Eliminate a senate requirement that corporations seeking loans must first apply to the federal reserve banks before taking their application to the RFC. The amendment struck out the stipulation that aid must first be sought at the federal reserve banks.

Reduce the limitation on maximum individual RFC loans from $1,000,000 to $100,000.

Authorize the RFC to recognize fishing as an industry for the purpose of helping fisherman with some of the $300,000,000 the measure authorizes for loans to small industries.

Allow individuals and partnerships as well as corporations to borrow from the RFC if they are in the business of mining, milling or smelting ores.

A proposal to authorize loans to municipalities for the construction of their own power producing or distributing plants was beaten down.

Also discarded was an amendment to allow the RFC to lend $15,000,000 to privately endowed schools, even denominational institutions.

The school district amendment was inserted only after a heated dispute in which representative Luce (R-Mass) argued that because it required "full and adequate security," only Chicago would benefit.

"I do not feel that the House will want to pull Chicago's chestnuts out of the fire," he said, "and to the rest of the country this amendment is just a gold brick."

The amendment had the support of the Banking committee, however, and it went in on a 113 to 80 teller vote.

The House removed a stipulation that no insurance company which has an RFC loan may increase its salaries while that loan is outstanding. The existing law, however, limiting maximum salaries paid by borrowing insurance companies to $17,500 a year was retaained.

FACTOR GIVEN NO SPECIAL FAVORS

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—John Factor has been given no special favors at the Dekalb county jail, U. S. Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer reported today to the superintendent of prisons at Washington.

Rumors that the man wanted in England for prosecution on a $7,000,000 stock fraud charge had been straying from the Sycamore jail freely, even joining the sheriff on a beer party at Aurora, had instigated a government investigation that proved the story unfounded.

The bureau of investigation interviewed more than a score of persons and Marshal Laubenheimer said today that Factor was allotted no more consideration than any other prisoner.

Factor is awaiting the state department's decision on turning him over to the British government.

Mrs. George Brown of Franklin spent Wednesday in the city shopping.

Toledo, O., May 23.—(AP)—Ohio national guardsmen were converging on Toledo tonight, ordered by Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson to end riotous disorders in a strike at the Electric Auto Lite company plant here. Approximately 1,500 workers have been imprisoned in the plant for nearly 12 hours by a crowd of 3,000 strikers and sympathizers.

Sheriff David Krieger, in charge of police and deputies at the plant, said tonight that he had only a small supply of tear gas bombs left to keep the crowd from the factory doors. The troops were called out after eight persons had been sent to hospitals and scores of others had received minor injuries.

A small fire in the shipping room of the plant added to the confusion late tonight, but it was extinguished under difficulties by firemen. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Company officials asked that fire apparatus be stationed at the plant after two automobiles had been overturned, saturated with gasoline and fired.

The automotive workers have been on strike five weeks, demanding a 10 percent wage increase, recognition of their union and priority rights. Officials of the company tonight offered to submit all the questions involved to the Detroit auto labor board for mediation.

Battle Workers

In the most serious skirmish tonight, rioters broke into the plant at three places and engaged in hand-to-hand fighting with employes and guards. After a brisk battle, the rioters were driven from the building. Guards were ordered to shoot at the legs of others who attempted to enter the building through broken windows.

Meanwhile, state and federal conciliators were working frantically to bring about a truce in the strike of 1,900 automotive workers, which has been under way here for five weeks. The situation was complicated by a threat of a general strike in sympathy with the automotive workers. A third of the local unions in Toledo were reported to have voted in favor of the general strike.

Today's rioting began shortly after 100 policemen arrived at the plant to protect day shift workers leaving the building. A strike picket, Miss Alma Hahn of Millbury, O., had just been taken to a hospital with scalp wounds received when she was struck with a bolt which strikers claimed was thrown from the factory.

The crowd had been assembling in territory adjacent to the factory since noon. Piles of bricks and stones were noticed at strategic places, and a wagon load of bricks was trundled to a point near the factory to provide further ammunition for the strikers.

Suddenly a barrage of tear gas bombs was hurled from upper factory windows. At the same time, company employes armed with iron bars and clubs dragged a fire hose into the street and played water on the crowd.

The strike sympathizers replied with bricks as they gasped and choked from the gas fumes and fell back. Two policemen, Joseph Cichy and Robert Siemens, were felled and taken to hospitals. Other police and Mayor Solon T. Klotz, who had gone to the plant to observe conditions, were affected by the gas. Another man struck by a brick while standing in the street also was hospitalized.

NEW ZEALAND GIRL FLYER MAKES NEW AVIATION RECORD

Jean Batten Flys From England to Australia in Fourteen Days

Port Darwin, Northern Australia, May 23.—(AP)—Petite Jean Batten, who refused to quit trying after two failures, today made a new aviation record for women by completing a flight from England to Australia in 14 days, 23 hours and 25 minutes.

The 24-year old New Zealand girl brought her old wooden moth plane, which has been in use nearly five years, down at 3 P. M. local time 1:30 A. M. eastern standard time), to cut four and a half days off the previous woman's record, set by Amy Johnson, wife of Capt. James A. Mollison.

"I had an adventurous trip," she said upon her arrival, "the weather was frightful throughout—where can I get a cup of tea?"

On the last stage of her trip, across the Timor Sea, headwinds blew her plane miles south of the course, she said.

Miss Batten, who acted as her own mechanic, said her plane functioned perfectly all the way. She plans to leave tomorrow for Brisbane but will not attempt to fly to her native New Zealand, she said, because her machine does not have sufficient range to cross the Tasman Sea, a distance of 1,200 miles.

The small, attractive girl flier reached Rome on the first day of her trip, and made principal stops later at Athens, Nicosia, Cyprus; Bagdad; Karachi, British India; Calcutta; Rangoon; Batavia, Dutch East Indies; Lombok Island, Malay Archipelago.

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian air hero, was her inspiration, and she determined to join him as an England-to-Australia record holder.

The first attempt of Miss Batten ended in Karachi, India, where her plane broke down in April, 1933. Last month, trying again, she cracked up in Rome and was slightly injured.

JOHNSON AND DARROW TAKE AN AUTO RIDE

Noted Lawyer And NRA Head Refuse To Comment

By Elton C. Fay
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Amid renewed disputation over Clarence Darrow's biting criticism of NRA, the veteran Chicago lawyer paid a friendly visit today to the office of Hugh S. Johnson and the two went for an automobile ride.

There was no comment from either the head of the review board or from the man at whom he had directed his report of the flaws he said he had found in the recovery agency. The call was described as social.

Meanwhile, in the wake of the Darrow report, there were rising on capitol hill speeches in defense of NRA and demands that congress stay in session until "abuses" by the administration had been corrected.

Day's Developments

The day's developments included:

Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.), one of the authors of the industrial recovery act, replied from the senate floor to Darrow's statement that American business had to choose between government encouraged monopoly and a planned economy entailing "socialized ownership." Wagner said it was "not necessary or desirable for us to go this far; we are not going this far."

The labor advisory board of NRA signed unanimously a statement drafted by its member, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the Darrow report "pandered to the worst element in our political and economic life; if its members are not conscious of these facts they are victims of arch stupidity and have forfeited their right to continue to function as a government agency."

Senator Nye (R. N. D.), a leading congressional critic of the application of NRA codes to little business, told the senate that "it seems to me to be an obligation upon us as a congress to decline to leave until assured these infamous abuses will be eliminated."

He referred to his allegations that the recovery administration fostered monopoly to the detriment of small business.

Nye served notice on the senate that he would daily have something to say on the subject, although he said that this was "without any desire to engage in a filibuster."

The white house withheld direct comment on the controversy.

"The new deal," Wagner told the senate, "has accomplished too much to fear destruction by its enemies."

The administration senator, however, bespoke the merit of criticism.

"It can suffer," he said of the NRA "only if its friends clothe it in perfection and scorn the advocates of improvement."

Nye first suggested, then later said he understood that President Roosevelt already was considering a study of the plight of little business in conferences with the heads of the several advisory boards within the NRA.

Nye said the Darrow report on the administration of the coal code had resulted in the department of justice sending investigators "into the Pittsburgh area" to check the charges made.

Justice department officials, asked about the Nye assertion, said their report on the Darrow findings, requested by President Roosevelt, were yet to be completed.

The North Dakotan demanded that reports he said the justice department and the federal trade commission had made to the administration on the Darrow report be turned over to congress.

"NRA is in the hands of its enemies," Nye said.

Meanwhile, at an NRA code hearing of the cotton garment industry, Sidney Hillman, labor leader, was contending that the Darrow review board was "scandalously and disgracefully" lending itself as a mouthpiece for sweatshop operators.

"It will be," Hillman said, "the greatest disservice to the country if this board permits sweatshoppers to use it to stir sentiment against the NRA and does not permit labor to cross examine and develop the facts."

Amid all of the criticism of NRA, word came from the white house that the president favored making one of the adjuncts that has grown out of the agency into a permanent institution. Chairman Walsh of the senate labor committee left the white house saying the president had asked that the Wagner labor board bill be passed at this session.

Shortly after this word went to the capitol it was reported that the bill would be brought out of committee for action by the senate within a few days. The bill would make permanent the general plan of the labor board as an instrument for settling labor controversies.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented at the white house today as feeling that the NRA would undergo changes gradually particularly with a view to adjusting difficulties experienced by little business under the codes.

YOUTH DROWNED

East St. Louis, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—Exhausted when he tried to swim across a 500-foot lake in Lake Park, east of here, Joseph Bacezewski, 18-year-old baker of Madison, was drowned in sight of about 100 swimmers.

Law Scores Victories

Two substantial victories were scored Wednesday in the war in crime. One was the killing of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker by fast-shooting officers in Louisiana, who beat the two desperadoes to the draw and sent them into eternity. Both Barrow and the woman were known to be quick on the trigger, and officers took no chances.

The other victory was the conviction of Evelyn Frechette and Dr. Clayton May in St. Paul, Minn., on a charge of harboring the outlaw, John Dillinger. Both were sentenced to two years in prison and fined $1,000. This action on the part of the government will decrease the chances of criminals to secure protection from friends.

The country feels no compunction at the killing of Barrow and Bonnie Parker. The woman appears to have been as bad as the man in this case, and by associating with him, she ran the risk of death. The two have preferred to shoot it out with the law, and when officers opened fire, they were reaching for their weapons. The woman had a machine gun across her lap, and Barrow died with a revolver in his hand. Neither tears or flowers are necessary.

Hot Weather Advice

All dangers to good health do not hide in on the crest of a cold wave, or lurk in the background of sudden changes. Heat, as well as cold, can cause damage to human machines, and as pointed out by the medical committee of the Illinois Tuberculosis association, precautions should be taken during the summer months to protect one's physical resources.

The medical committee apparently believes the average man and woman is less careful about matters of health in the summer than winter. Many believe that when warm weather arrives there is little to do about keeping well until the arrival of chilly breezes in the fall. A bulletin issued by the Tuberculosis association sets forth a number of rules for the maintenance of health during hot-weather months.

Do not run for trains or busses. Another will be along in a few minutes, but you only have one heart, the first rule reads.

Eat less fats, starches, sweets. They provide heat. Eat more vegetables, fruits.

Drink plenty of water. It is a most important factor in nature's cooling system for the body.

Bathe frequently. Soap and water help keep the pores of the skin open and facilitate perspiration.

Do not go out in the sun without a head covering. Sun stroke may result.

Tan gradually. Too large doses of sunshine can be harmful.

Wear loose, porous clothing, light in weight and color, to permit free circulation of air about the body.

Don't talk about the weather. The other fellow knows it is hot and would rather not be reminded of it.

These are the rules as prescribed by the state association which has done much to promote more healthful conditions in Illinois. They are based on common-sense, and most people will recognize their value from past experiences.

There is but one that will be difficult to follow—the suggestion about not mentioning the heat to others. What if the other fellow beats you to it some day when the sun is bearing down and the mercury is 100? In that event, we believe a retort is justified. Even though it is just "Whew!"

More Than Hobbies

The Tigers, Echoes, Waves, Oak Leaves, Owls etc., are making appearance in schools and colleges throughout the country. These are the school annuals, highly decorated, profusely illustrated, crammed full of student news elaborate tributes to faculties and boards of education, as should be. The yearbooks reflect loyalty to the institutions. They preserve traditions, perpetuate spirit. These books of all sizes and colors, ranging from the modest attempts of small high schools to the leather-bound volumes issued in colleges and universities, make good souvenirs.

The history of the Senior classes is written between the covers of these publications. There are departments devoted to scholastic news, dramatics, music and sports. A humor department usually is added for good measure, in which the joke editor takes a poke at a number of students and frequently at some of the faculty members. Many original themes are to be found in these volumes. The yearbook the product of much painstaking work.

These publications usually are of little interest outside of the immediate communities from which they emanate. Sentiment for the alma mater is firmly attached to the issuance of such books.

Some schools during the past few years have been forced to abandon publication of annuals. There are some who would place these journalistic endeavors in the hobby class. But this belief is unjust. The school annuals are worth the work, expense, long hours of planning. They are proving grounds for talent.

Most young men and women are considering the choice of a vocation or have already made a decision as they enter the final years of school. There are some who like to write; others with a knack of drawing or engraving; still others with natural ability along business lines, photography, advertising.

The school annual gives a large number of students opportunity for an expression of ability in a practical way. The school annual is often their last step between school life and business life. If their school publication is a success, they are encouraged. They often receive inspiration from laboring over its pages that places them in life's work.

The school papers of this country have been a source of discovery of much talent. There is something about putting out an annual that stimulates the energies of every member of the staff, that inspires the students to their best efforts. Many such publications are of genuine literary and artistic merit, as well as an accurate record of the year's activities.

School annuals are more than hobbies. They afford training and reflect talent that otherwise may remain latent.

Sinking a Lightship

We who live in the interior of America know little of the coastwise life of the people. On May 15 the lightship Nantucket which guided ocean traffic into the port of New York was rammed and sunk by the White Star liner Olympia. The ship was located 42 miles off the island of Nantucket, with New Bedford, Mass., as the home city for most of its crew of eleven officers and men, seven of whom were killed in the collision or went down with the ship.

The lightship was anchored in 180 feet of water to warn incoming ships against the reefs and shoals in that region of the Atlantic. At that spot the sea was seldom still and the life of any man who was stationed on board was lonely and filled with danger. Ships must pass close to the anchored vessel to avoid the shoals. There was always the fear that in the fog they might come too close, which is exactly what happened.

The ship had a light of 3,000 candlepower, usually visible for 12 miles. But it also had a radio beacon, which contacted ships at a distance of 300 miles and held them on the true course. When the light could not be seen, the beacon did the guiding, and it was apparently responsible for drawing the Olympia into direct collision with the lightship, tho the real cause of the tragedy is not known.

Being anchored with heavy chains the lightship could not guard herself against a possible collision; she was helpless and entirely at the mercy of the giant vessels it was her business to protect. Such was the inevitable condition, and men who went out to keep the light and tend the radio beacon knew the danger.

The men who went down with the lightship are heroes of the coast; their names will be memorialized and their families will receive compensation from a grateful government. They made the supreme sacrifice to duty and died in the service of others, in which millions more toil daily, achieving fame only if they encounter tragedy and give their lives in the line of duty.

Era of The 400 is Past

From the Tulsa Daily World.

A great deal of newspaper space is called for when a member of New York's four hundred dies. The era of the four hundred has passed out and most of the people firmly identified with it are gone. That was a glamorous era in American history. It immediately preceded the era of lavish display and barbarous jazz. It had a dignity and conservatism which marked no other era of American life.

Probably what Ward McAlister or somebody else called the four hundred was the greatest target and the greatest focal regime this country ever had. The idea of snobbishness was immediately adduced. The term four hundred came from the idea that just about four hundred people were entitled by lineage, worth and wealth to be members of the upper strata of society. About the time the idea took hold the magnificent parties began—in New York and at Newport. They lacked the size and extravagance and excesses of later functions, but at the time they were made sensations. Naturally all this gave rise to discontent; at least it afforded agitators plenty of texts. Soap box orators naturally developed in such a period.

As a matter of fact, the real four hundred was a distinguished asset to the country. The older and wealthier families dominated it and there were in it many very worthy people—intelligent, wealthy, religious and moderate. Social standards were high. Since that era exclusiveness has become something of a joke, and gate-crashers are now more prominent than those who really "belong." In recent years Newport has lost its prestige and is mostly a place in Rhode Island. Globe trotting, touring of various sorts and the more sunlit climes are the styles now.

It was right after the gay '90s that O. Henry got back at the four hundred idea by writing "The Four Million," in which he outlined the other side of New York—the city of the bum and the beggar, the burglar, the confidence man, the bricklayer, the clerk, the priest, the social climber, the doctor, the piano mover and the lodging house. It was a brilliant opportunity for America's most brilliant story writer.

The Vanderbilts are a wonderful race. The blood is still good. Several generations have in turn developed worth while and highly regarded people. Their wealth has been pretty well shepherded. Like the Astors, they have maintained prestige and have had comparatively few black sheep. But the social empire they created has gone.

The New Deal in Washington

Joker Kills Joker and Saves Securities Act, as Wall Street Wails . . . Senator McKellar Catches His Breath . . . O. B. Smart Is All of That in Handling Reedsville Job.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington, May 23—The Securities Act—the New Deal's bulwark for innocent investors—came so near being repealed that it wasn't even funny.

Not by outright legislation, but by joker. If the New Dealers hadn't outjokered the Wall Street wrecking crew, the act would now be a gone gosling.

The New York lobbyists secretly celebrated its death—prematurely. Their anguished rage now is pathetic.

The "brain trust" fellows who nurse the act had agreed on certain modifications—partly to ease passage of the stock market control bill through Congress, partly to silence the cry that stringent provisions of the Securities Act were delaying prosperity.

Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking committee and Senator Jimmy Brynes, White House liaison man, had charge of tacking those amendments to the stock market bill.

Suddenly, far behind the scenes and concealed from the audience, Joe Robinson of Arkansas, Senate majority leader, stepped in.

He persuaded Fletcher and Brynes limit recovery of losses by investors to add an amendment which would in misrepresented stocks to those who could prove that they had relied on misrepresentation or omissions in the registration statement to the Federal Trade commission.

Sharp eyes caught that joker when Fletcher introduced it. It meant that any deluded investor seeking redress, must prove that he had personally come to Washington and inspected the registration statement before he invested.

Fletcher and Brynes heard from a Voice which spoke louder than Robinson's. Fletcher made what he called a "slight change." It was another joker and it completely killed the effect of the first joker.

Before anyone knew what was happening, it had sped through the Senate along with the other amendments and the stock market bill.

Days elapsed before the Wall Street boys woke up to the fact that they still were going to have an effective Securities Act. Then they began to shriek.

Peace Comes to McKellar

A joint congressional committee is going on a nice long junket to Manila, where it will tell the Filipinos how to prepare for independence. It looks now as if Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee would be among the junketers, but there have been moments of horrible uncertainty.

McKellar was worrying about the senatorial candidacy of Congressman Gordon Browning until recently, when Browning decided to run against Senator Nathan Bachman for the short term. McKellar, without serious opposition, then decided he could go.

Suddenly, in the Senate, he received a telegram signed with the name of a Tennessee newspaperman, which said Browning had decided to oppose McKellar for the six-year term. McKellar was pacing in agitation when Tydings of Maryland, Senate boss of the junket, approached him.

"Getting ready to go to the Philippines?" Tydings asked.

"How the hell can I?" sputtered McKellar. "Look at this!"

"Oh, don't let that worry you," advised Tydings. "I sent it myself."

O. B. Smart Is That

It took a fellow named O. B. Smart to straighten out the messy situation at Mrs. Roosevelt's pet subsistence homestead project in Reedsville, W. Va.

Orders from the White House, Subsistence Homestead offices here, and other sources were criss-crossing one another, with confusing results. It looked as if lots of money would be spent foolishly and there was a good chance that the project might become such a butt for ridicule as to damage the whole national plan.

Then O. B. Smart, a PWA engineer who has constructed big things in Europe and South America, was assigned to command of Reedsville. He stopped all the fooling and expects to get 50 mining families into their new homes within a few days.

O. B. Smart, reports say, knows how to handle White House and all other suggestions with great tact.

Since Congress killed off the proposal for a keyless lock factory at Reedsville, the big problem has been that of providing an industry to give part-time employment to the settlers.

But secret negotiations are now being pursued with an internationally famous capitalist who has strong ideas about decentralizing industry. (Not Henry Ford.) An announcement is due before long.

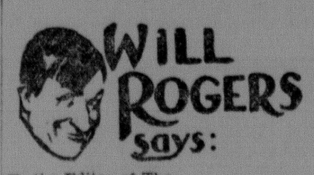

HARD ROAD WORKER HAS LEG FRACTURED TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Levi Cox, 515 Duncan street, was injured Tuesday afternoon while employed by the File & Collins Construction Co., on Route 104, southeast of the city. He was working near a concrete mixer and in some manner got in the way of the machinery. He sustained a fracture of both bones in his right leg, below the knee.

Cox was brought to Passavant hospital about 4:00 o'clock by C. R. Whitson. X-Ray pictures showed the leg fracture. He was given surgical attention, and will be confined to the hospital for sometime.

Mrs. Dale Hamilton, residing on Route six near this city, entered Passavant hospital Tuesday to undergo treatment.

Murrayville shoppers in the city yesterday included Misss Agnes Garvin.

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:

Beverly Hills, Calif., May 23.—Senator Norris wanted to abolish the electoral college. This is a bad time to try and do away with anything connected with "college." He will have to wait till the low-brows get in. Well he is not a man to get discouraged, he was years trying to get them to abolish the lame duck session. When you get down to common sense, and level headedness, and answerable to nobody but his own conscience, you just about got the definition of that quiet fighting old senator. Yours,

WILL.

Jerseyville Boys in Marble Tourney

Jerseyville, May 23.—Gene McFain and Jim Abbott, winners of first and second place in the marble tournament at the Jerseyville grade school this year were taken to St. Louis by Coach Charles Daniels where they participated in the annual marble tournament which was held at Forest Park.

Robert Smith and Adrian Green, winners of the third and fourth places in the local contest, were also taken to witness the event but were not eligible to compete in St. Louis.

The Jerseyville boys made a good showing and were two of the last twelve to be eliminated in the Illinois-Missouri division. Each of the local entrants won three rounds and both were eliminated in the same game by one marble. When they arrived at Forest Park the boys were presented with white sweaters on which was the name of Jerseyville and they were permitted to keep these as a souvenir of the tournament.

McFain, because of winning first place at the local high school, will receive a trophy with his name inscribed thereon, and Abbott will receive a medal bearing his name. The former is a member of the eighth grade and Abbott is in the seventh grade.

In the girls tournament at the school, Louise Carpuky of the eighth grade won first place, and is entitled to a trophy. A total of two hundred and thirty-five boys and girls of the grade school took part in the event this year.

Max Factor's Hollywood Art School of Make-Up

An innovation...this beauty service in the true art of make-up...through the courtesy of Max Factor, Hollywood's make-up genius

See "Thirty Day Princess" when it comes to the Fox-Illinois and note Miss Sidney's striking make up!

How Color Changes Facial Contour...Thin face or round face? Either may be made to appear more oval by applying rouge according to certain principles of art. ★ Subtle Flattery!... Attractive features may be artistically accented ... those less so, subdued...so that beauty, and beauty only, is emphasized. ★ Color Harmony Make-Up...the skin, the eyes, the hair decide the color scheme. It is vital to natural beauty that colors in make-up harmonize.

Sylvia Sidney, starring in Paramount's "Thirty Day Princess" Illustrates a Max Factor Color Harmony Make-Up

POWDER — Creating a satin-smooth make-up that will cling for hours, Max Factor's Brunette Face Powder blends in color harmony with Sylvia Sidney's brownette coloring. Perfect under any close-up test.

ROUGE — Harmonizing with the color tone of the powder... Max Factor's Carmine Rouge imparts a soft, and lifelike glow of color to the cheeks...Smooth, like finest skin texture, it always blends evenly.

LIPSTICK — Accenting the color appeal of the lips, Max Factor's Super-Indelible Carmine Lipstick completes the color harmony make-up... Moisture-proof, the color remains permanent, uniform for hours.

MacMurray College 1934 Illiwoco Has Been Distributed

The Illiwoco published by the Class of 1935 at MacMurray college was distributed to the students Wednesday morning. Miss Esther Dumas, editor-chief of the year book is deserving of special praise. Miss Dumas was most capable for this task, especially due to her experience as editor of "The Crimson J," the Jacksonville High School Year book, in 1931.

The book is dedicated to the women of yesterday who established the traditions of this college. The theme of the Illiwoco is a collection of past incidents of the college, covering ten pages and written rather that these interesting episodes might live than to give any historical information. Dr. Joseph R. Harker, president emeritus of the college, contributed a large portion of the material. These stories are illustrated in conventional units of black and white. Miss Clara Chapin, art editor, is to be highly commended in her striking illustrations of the theme of this volume.

The artistic values contributing originality and charm to the book were created under the supervision of Miss Nellie A. Knopf, professor of art. One of the most important features of the Illiwoco this year is the six original wood-cuts of campus views. This unusual work was done by Betty Sullenberger, Marjorie Booth, and Virginia Browning, senior art majors. Each wood-cut is autographed by the girls.

Special note is to be made of the inspiring work of Eleanor Warner, assistant editor, during the illness of Miss Dumas.

The cover is a unit design of the name MacMurray and of a conventionalized elm tree. This pattern is printed in the college colors, blue with yellow background. The yellow binding has a name plate to match the corresponding larger plate on the front.

Another attractive division is the feature section. The foreword to this reads: "Be it known that the following selection was made not first to honor nor secondly to classify but rather to portray the meaning of these much used expressions in terms of MacMurray personalties. The following words are illustrated: Beauty, Helen Wright, Louise G. Lugg, Mildred Deaton, and Mildred Fulkerson; versatility, Jane Bentley, Theo Wilson, Ruth Hailey, Rosaline Boland; charm, Virginia Browning, Orilla Moe, Mary Frances Scott, Esther Dumas; individuality, Betty Ann Brown, Aurelie Proctor, Margaret Goebel, Pauline Crapp; culture, Elsie Ream, Gail Cummings, Eleanor Warner, Minna Mar Adams; sportsmanship, Kaye Frentzel, Virginia Cameron, Olive Young, Jean Hosafros; happy-go-lucky, Mary Dailey, Cornelia Green Elizabeth Sullenberger, Virginia Wiswell; efficiency, Elizabeth Buker, Roberta Steinman, Lucille Gehring, Mary Burgess; friendliness, Willia Stephenson, Clara Chapin, Catherine Mann, Kathryn Gourley; domesticity, Hazel Mae Clark, Ann Hyrup, Ruth Watts and Marie Cannon.

Carrying out a most recent method of today, the pictures bleed off the page throughout the book. There is also an index to all the pictures.

Members of this year's staff are:

Editor-in-chief—Esther Dumas.

Assistant editor—Eleanor Warner.

Associate editor—Ruth Olive Steinel.

Art editor—Clara Chapin.

Photograph editor—Josephine Johnson.

Publication editor—Kathryn Gourley.

Literary editor—Eleanor Alkire.

Organization editor—Jane Adams.

Typists—Rosaline Boland and Thelma Abbott.

Business Staff

Business manager—Pauline Crapp.

Assistant business manager—Sue Schaeffer.

Advertising manager—Ruth Hailey.

Circulation manager—Helen Wright.

Miss Cornelia Green aided the business staff in securing advertising. Mrs. Marion Chase Schaeffer is advisor of the junior class.

HOW to keep fair in the fairways is an easy matter in a sports frock like the one illustrated here. Linen, gingham or tub silk are the materials. It is designed for sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 18 requires 4 1-4 yards of 39 inch material.

To secure a PATTERN and simple sewing chart of this model, tear out this sketch and mail it to JULIA BOYD, 103 PARK AVENUE, NEW YORK, N. Y., together with 15 CENTS IN COIN. Be sure to enclose, on a separate sheet of paper, YOUR NAME, FULL ADDRESS, YOUR SIZE, THE NUMBER OF THIS PATTERN (No. 235), and mention the NAME OF THIS NEWSPAPER.

Dissent May Change Silver Bill, Report

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Four western Senators broke temporarily away from the silver bloc today for a huddle on the question of liberalizing the silver purchase bill.

The four silverites—Borah (R-Idaho), Thomas (D-Okla), Wheeler (D-Mont) and McCarren (D-Nev)—said they wanted to study the measure minutely in private conference to see if they should move to strengthen it. Their advance predictions, however, were that they would propose no amendments.

First reactions of some of the four when the bill was introduced yesterday on the heels of the president's silver message did not indicate unalloyed joy over the proposed treatment of the white metal.

"Silver is not made money under the terms of this bill, any more than greenbacks or copper or nickel is made money," Thomas complained.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev), replied that President Roosevelt viewed the bill as putting silver on the same basis with gold. Pittman, who introduced the bill, called it another forward stride in the long struggle to rehabilitate silver. A majority of the silver bloc seemed satisfied and drove for passage quickly.

Senator Robinson, democratic leader, announced it would be taken up next week or just as soon as the tariff is out of the way. He forsees little opposition.

The bill, carrying President Roosevelt's benediction, declares for a policy of silver purchasing until ultimately one-fourth of the money value of the nation's monetary stocks shall be in silver, the other three-fourths being gold.

RIOTING STUDENTS IN YUGOSLAVIA OVERCOME

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 23.—(AP)—Prison bars and the bayonets of gendarmes held in submission today 600 university students—girls as well as men—who rioted against the minister of education.

The gendarmes, brandishing clubs and bayonets, ended a two-day siege of the striking students last night when they routed them from two university buildings.

Some 275 students, among them 35 girls, were in jail today and a heavy guard was thrown about the school buildings to prevent further outbreaks from other undergraduates.

PRINTER HELD AFTER POISON LIQUOR SENT TO FELLOW LODGEMEN

Oakland, Calif., May 23.—(AP)—Arthur J. Cleu, 40-year-old Oakland printer, faced a possible charage of attempted murder here today, authorities said, following his reported confession that he sent poison liquor through the mails to seven fellow lodge members.

Cleau was arrested yesterday at Ukiah where he was attending the annual Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, a fraternal organization. Comparison of his hand lettering with that on the poison liquor packages, was said by officers to have led to his detention.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Wehr planned to go before the grand jury Thursday and ask for return of an indictment against the printer. The indictment probably will be sought, Wehr said, on the ground of "attempted murder."

In his purported confession, taken by Police Inspectors James Goodnight and L. M. Jewell, Cleu assertedly blamed a longstanding quarrel with his lodge brothers.

HOSTESS SCHOOL TO BE CONDUCTED IN CITY TODAY

A Hostess School, at which homemaking will be presented as one of the modern arts, and where all phases of home management will be discussed will be sponsored by the Kelvinator corporation, oldest manufacturers of electric refrigerators, in connection with Hieronymus Brothers, their local dealers at 2 p. m., today and Friday, in the dining room of the New Dunlap hotel.

Miss Alice I. Ward, well known home economist from the Kelvin Kitchen in Detroit, will come to Jacksonville to conduct the two-day school, to which a general invitation is extended by Hieronymus Brothers.

Souvenirs, prizes and recipe books will be given out during the sessions.

Similar schools held recently in many cities throughout the country have attracted capacity crowds and proven of great interest to homemakers. In addition to lectures on food preparation there will be courses in menu planning, home entertaining and home management. One of the features will be one the subject of "Cooking with Cold," a course designed to fully acquaint home-makers with all the possibilities of electric refrigeration.

A number of new recipes, perfected by the famous Kelvin Kitchen in Detroit, will be presented to women attending these sessions.

More Facts About Auto Accidents

Of the about 30,000 fatalities last year from this cause, the percentages are as follows:

Pedestrians crossing in the middle of the block proved the most hazardous — that caused 31 per cent of the fatalities. Careless walking on highways was responsible for 17 per cent. Children playing in the street came to 13 per cent. Walking out from behind parked cars into traffic accounted for 11 per cent, with the balance of 28 per cent laid to miscellaneous causes.

Browns Pound Four Senator Pitchers Hard and Capture First Game of Series 6 to 2

St. Louis, May 23.—(AP)—With Big Ray Pepper supplying most of the punch, the Browns humbled four hurlers and the American League champion Washington Senators, 6 to 2, in the series opener today.

In the first inning, Pepper hit high into the left field seats for a home run, scoring behind Clift and West. Joey Kuhel hit a homer in the seventh with Buddy Myer on base, but noisy Buck Newsom had the situation under control at all other stages.

CARLETON WINS

Monmouth, Ill., May 23—(AP)—Bunching eight hits with five errors by the opposition, Carleton of Northfield, Minn., defeated Monmouth's baseball team, 5 to 2, today. Rafdal of Carleton hit a home run in the second inning for the only extra base hit of the game.

Monmouth was handicaped by makeshift infield.

HARD LUCK STILL ON TRAIL OF I. C. TRACK, FIELD TEAM

Team Gets Ready to Invade Monmouth This Week-end in Quest of Little 19 Title—Pervinsek And Moore Are Latest Defections.

Illinois College's 1934 track and field team will go down in history as one of the toughest luck teams that a coach has attempted to produce. Given an outside chance to slip into a Little 19 championship through the performance of their stars, two of these said stars appear to be on the wane, with the prospects of their performing even somewhat doubtful.

George Moore, who left the campus about two weeks ago in search of a job in Chicago, has lined up the job, and was told to report to work this Saturday. That means that George, who holds the college two mile record, and who seemed certain to win a second place for Illinois in the Little 19 meet, will be unable to perform. There was only one possibility that he would be able to run two miles for the college, and that possibility is rather far fetched. He has a chance at two positions, but the second position, which would permit him to compete in the Little 19 meet, is slow in developing.

Bill Pervinsek, who was being counted upon for some points in both the shot put and discus throw, had the misfortune to scald his foot with hot water recently, and has been unable to do any practicing. Athletic Director Van Meter said yesterday that Pervinsek probably would be ready for the meet, but he could not forecast what Pervinsek would be able to do without practice.

The team took its last hard workout last night, will warm up tonight, and part of the team will leave for Monmouth Friday. The remainder leaving Saturday morning. Preliminaries in the dashes, 440 yard run, and hurdles are scheduled for Friday afternoon with the finals in all events Saturday.

Mr. Van Meter will take George Baker, Clarendon Smith and Wallie Meyer with him to the Friday meet.

TWO U. S. GOLFERS ARE ELIMINATED

By Gayle Talbot
Associated Press Sports Writer

Prestwick, Scotland, May 23.—(AP)—America lost two more contenders for the British Amateur golf title today. Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Jack Westland of Chicago bowed to members of the Union Jack's Walker cup team in hard fought third round matches, but the United States still remained in a strategic position to capture the crown won only twice before by American homebreds.

Uncle Sam had mashie-wielding nephews in each of the four brackets. Jesse Guilford, the big Bostonian who is proving the sensation of the championship, remained in the top quarter and for the fourth round tomorrow faced the stiffest opposition in 23-year old Jack McLean, the pride of Prestwick, who elbowed out Fischer in a sensational, par-cracking encounter, 2 and 1.

George Terry Dunlap, Jr., American amateur champion, the other foreign survivor in the upper half, has a tough assignment to handle in the veteran Roger Wethered, British champion in 1923, whose game fairly bristled today as he cut down Westland, 3 and 2. If Dunlap succeeds in hurdling Wethered the slender American appears to have clear sailing ahead until Friday's semi-finals.

The young U. S. open titleholder, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and the husky, stern-faced Californian, W Lawson Little, were locked in the thick of the skirmish in the lower bracket. Goodman has no apparent obstacle between him and a semi-final joust with Little, who is matched against Lionel Munn, the Irish golfer, in the fourth round. Munn quit this year's British Walker cup team after a controversy. Goodman's next opponent was to be one H. G. McCallum.

All in all, in view of the fortunate lineup of her players, America appears virtually certain to have at least two representatives in the semi-finals Friday afternoon. Two rounds each will be played tomorrow and Friday.

RED SOX WALLOP INDIANS 7 TO 5

Cleveland, O., May 23.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox stepped into the middle of an incipient Cleveland winning streak today and defeated the Indians 7 to 5 after a big ninth inning.

The Indians were leading 5 to 4 when the final frame started, having battered Lefty Grove for 10 hits. Singles by Bishop, Grove and Morgan and a double by Cissell brought in the three runs and the game for Boston. The Indian infield slipped frequently during the early innings.

White Sox Hit Ball to All Corners of Playing Field And Trounce Yankees 14-2

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—The league leading New York Yankees suffered their fourth straight defeat and their sixth in seven western games as the Chicago White Sox cut loose with a 14 to 2 victory in the first of a three-game series today.

The White Sox collected 18 hits, including home runs by manager Jimmy Dykes, Ted Lyons and Al Simmons, off Charlie Ruffing before the big right hander retired in the eighth in favor of Jimmie Deshong. They continued to pound Deshong and before the last man was retired in the eighth sent seven runs across the plate.

The defeat was Ruffing's first after five victories. He walked six but staved off disaster in the early innings by fanning eight.

Lyons held the Yanks to six hits, including a homer by Tony Lasseri. The triumph was the Sox fifth in seven games with eastern clubs and their seventh in 13 games since Dykes assumed the managership.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS

Naperville, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—North Central college clinched the championship of the Northern Illinois Baseball League today by defeating Wheaton College, 7 to 1. Lefty Wendlandt, outstanding Little Nineteen pitcher, struck out 11 Wheaton batters and allowed only two hits.

Kenberry of North Central hit two home runs while Landa cracked out a pair of triples and a single to lead the attack. The victory was the ninth straight Little Nineteen triumph for the Cardinals. Score:

GIANTS WAYLAY BRUINS 5 TO 2

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Timely hitting behind the effective pitching of Hal Schumacher gave the New York Giants a 5 to 2 decision over the Chicago Cubs and Guy Bush today.

The defeat was Bush's first of the season after winning seven straight games. He allowed only eight blows as compared to 10 off Schumacher but the world champions bunched their blows.

Mel Ott gave the Giants the jump with his ninth home run with Manager Bill Terry on base in the first round and they never were headed. The Cubs scored both of their runs in the sixth on English's double and singles by Galan and Stainback.

GREENFIELD GETS PLEASANT HILL ATHLETIC HEAD

Coach Chlorus Hubbell Resigns After Three Successful Years to Accept Greenfield Post Next September.

Pleasant Hill, May 23.—(Special)—Coach Chlorus Hubbell, who for three years has been highly successful as athletic head of Pleasant Hill high school, has resigned his position here to accept a similar position at Greenfield high school. Hubbell's successor here has not been selected.

Since coming to Pleasant Hill, Coach Hubbell has produced one Illinois Valley co-champion basketball team, and has had his basketball teams high up in the Pike county conference standings. He also has been highly successful as a teacher.

J. H. Voshall, superintendent of schools, announced Hubbell's resignation recently. Hubbell came to Pleasant Hill from McKendree college, where he starred as a member of the football basketball and track teams of that college. He will take the place vacated by R. S. Ranes, who resigned recently to accept a position as superintendent of the Mt. Sterling schools.

PHILLIES NOSEOUT REDLEGS 3 TO 2

Philadelphia, May 23.—(AP)—Timely hitting by Leftfielder Harvey Hendrick was a big factor today as the Phillies nosed out the Cincinnati Reds 3 to 2 in a tight pitching duel.

Hendrick's single in the fourth started a batting rally in which he scored on Todd's hit. In the first, Jeffries scored on a fielder's choice of a ball Hendrick hit.

The Reds turned on Collins momentarily in the eighth, and, aided by a pair of errors and two hits, tallied twice, but in the closing half of the same frame, the Phils got the lead back again when Hendrick singled to score Ethan Allen.

Score:

Cincinnati	000 000 020-2 10 0

BRAVES DEFEAT PIRATES 6 TO 1

Boston, May 23.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse, the Braves' ace right-hander, held the Pittsburgh Pirates to five hits today as the Tribesmen took the series' opener, 6-1. Marty McManus and Bill Urbanski each got homers and their bats drove in all of the Boston runs.

In gaining his sixth win of the season, Frankhouse had the unusual experience of neither issuing a pass nor fanning a single Pirate. He forced the Pirates to ground out 17 times and drive 10 flies to his outfielders.

Through Giving Away Ball Games, Coach Says; to End Season With 2 Home Games

"We're through giving away ball games," Coach Raymond Nusspickel told his Illinois College baseball squad yesterday afternoon during their regular practice period, and from now on, he continued, there will be nothing but victories or something drastic is going to happen. Illinois will return to its home field for the final two games of its schedule, playing Western Teachers of Macomb here this afternoon at 3:30 and Illinois State Normal here Decoration day.

Still convinced he has the best base ball team in the Little 19 conference, the Blueboy coach declared yesterday that he had laid plans to challenge either North Central or Lake Forest for the conference crown, if the local team had won at Charleston Tuesday. That loss, the coach said, was practically a give-away, because Illinois outplayed the Easterners all through the game. There was no excuse for tying the score in the ninth inning, much less losing the game, the coach pointed out.

Henry Zaber, one of the squad's seniors, will be the hurling selection for today's game, the coach said yesterday. Branham turned back the Western Teachers at Macomb with three hits when Illinois won 3-0. It is Zaber's turn to climb the hill, and the Belleville lad will get his final chance at flinging for the Blueboys. Branham, another senior, may be the starting pitcher against State Normal next week, unless Nusspickel decides to use Russel Davis.

There are four seniors on this year's team, only three of whom have been playing regularly. The squad lost its captain, Bruno Bierman, at the start of the season as the result of a broken arm. Zaber, Branham, and Kenneth Woods art the others who will graduate this spring.

Western Teachers are not regarded lightly here, despite the fact that the Blueboys clubbed them unmercifully here last year. This year the Leathernecks held the Blueboys in check in a tight and beautifully played game, Russel Page, negro star, doing the flinging. Page probably will be Zaber's opponent today.

The Leathernecks defeated State Normal two days after the Redbirds handed the Blueboys their first setback during the presetn campaign.

TWILIGHT PLAYERS TO BEGIN SEASON AT PARK JUNE 4

Managers Begin Signing Up Players For This Season's Play—Four Teams Ready To Play Schedule.

The twilight league season at the Nichols Park diamond will begin June 4, according to plans made at a meeting of managers held last night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the New Dunlap hotel. Four managers were present at the meeting, and signified their intention to enter teams in the league this year, if they could find ball players.

Most of the managers were ready with complete line-ups for Twilight league play. However, all of the managers said they would like to enroll more players if possible, and said they would continue their hunt for additional material.

The four teams which will be entered in the league and their managers are the Red and White, managed by Earl Adams and "Red" Murgatroyd, the Jacksonville Indees, managed by Frank Smith; the Myers Brothers team, managed by James Lakin, and the Fox Theaters, managed by Len Magill.

According to present plans, teams in the league will play twice each week, with the first four week days set aside for regularly scheduled games and Fridays for playing off games rained out or games which end in a tie. Games will begin promptly at 5:30 each evening, and the managers hoped that they would be able to get in seven innings before darkness set in. Games will be free to the public, and all of the facilities of the new grandstand and dressing rooms will be extended.

Charles DeSilva, president of the Park Board, was present at the meeting and told the managers of the official opening of the park this Sunday with a double header of teams entered in the Illinois Valley league. INCREASED SOYBEAN ACREAGE TO BRING FARMERS BENEFITS

Illinois farmers, who this year plan to plant approximately 682,000 acres of soybeans, will be in a position to reap many advantages from the crop, particularly in the case of producers who are cooperating in the government's wheat and corn-hog adjustment programs, in the opinion of E. E. DeTurk, chief of soil technology at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. At least six characteristics of the crop can be cited as advantages.

When plowed under, soybeans add nitrogen to the soil in much the same manner as other legume crops. Then too, this crop has the ability to absorb mineral plant food elements which are ordinarily not readily available, and when the soybeans are turned under, the minerals become easily available for the following crops.

Experiments have shown that the tops of soybeans, when plowed down help development of bacteria, thereby making the soil more favorable for future crop growth. Furthermore, soybeans need less lime or limestone than the more commonly grown clovers. Although not the most ideal crop for soil erosion prevention, soybeans give quick results in producing a protective cover, and when broadcast or drilled around a slope will do much in holding the soil. Finally, soybeans are distasetful to chinch bugs, and if the contracted acres are located between the small grain and corn fields, this legume tends to discourage the bugs from migrating from the small grain to the corn field where they do the greatest damage.

Although soybeans fit in ideally as a green manure crop for contracted acres, they are not used as such in central farm operations, being less practical for soil improvement than certain other legumes.

Fay and Smedley to Edit College Paper

In accordance with a new policy inaugurated this year to choose the editors of the College Ramblers, examinations for the positions were held this week. William Fay, Jacksonville, and Theodore Smedley, Waverly, have been elected as co-editors of the Rambler for the year 1934-35, the Rambler Board of Control has announced.

Both men are well qualified to hold this position and have been on the staff this year. Fay served as one of the associate editors this year and Smedley has handled the sports section.

In addition to their newspaper experience, both men are high ranking scholastically. Smedley was recently elected as a junior to Phi Beta Kappa and Fay has attained high averages on the honor roll throughout his work. The examinations for this position were comprehensive in their scope and represented a complete survey of the necessary qualifications needed for an editor.

Winchester Women at May Breakfast

Winchester, May 23.—The annual May Breakfast of the General Assembly of the Winchester Woman's club was held on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Charles Condit and daughter, Mrs. S. G. Smith. There were about 75 members of the club and guests present for this the final meeting of the club for the year 1933-34.

Following the luncheon a short business meeting was called to order by Mrs. Alva Stainforth, retiring president of the General Assembly. Reports of the various departments of the club were given by Mrs. O. R. Robinson, president of the Household Science department, Mrs. E. H. Mellon, president of the Music and Drama department, and Miss Bertha Miner, president of the Literature and Civics department. The programs for the three departments of the club for next year were announced and various other standing committees submitted reports.

Mrs. Orville Foreman of Jacksonville, who is a member of the State Board of Woman's League of Voters, addressed the assembly upon the subject of "National and State Legislative Measures." Mrs. Foreman gave a highly instructive and interesting discussion of this most timely topic. Following the address retiring president, Mrs. Alva Stainforth, turned the gavel over to Mrs. Lois Eckman, president-elect for the year 1934-35.

Miss Jeanette Powell and Mrs. Helen Brown Read of Jacksonville and Mrs. T. H. Ashford of Kansas City, Mo., were guests at the meeting.

Enjoy your MEMORIAL DAY TRIP on this GREAT TIRE!

Here's what you get in Goodyear's new "G-3"!

You get the broader road contact of a flatter, wider All-Weather Tread.

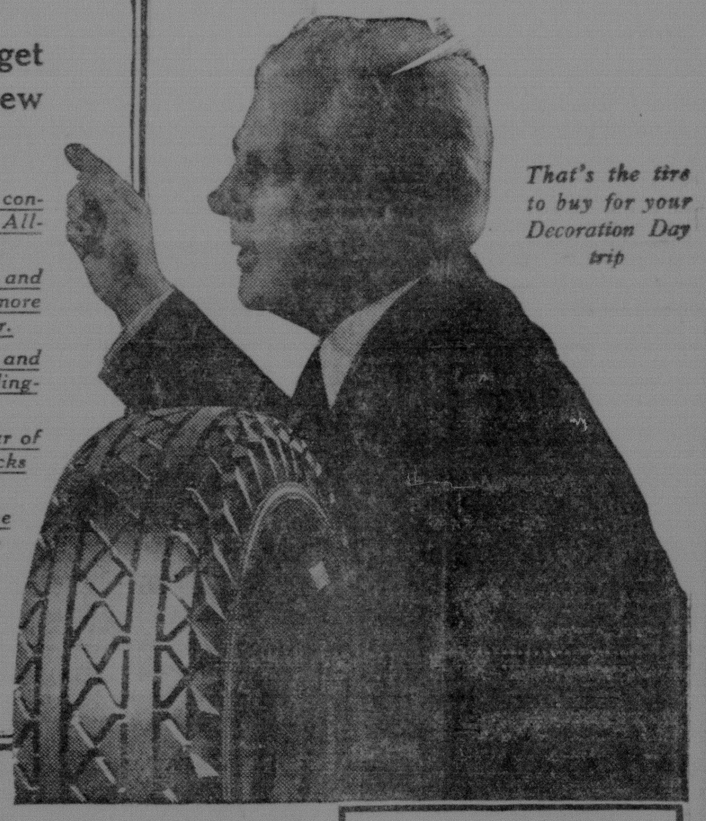

You get quicker-stopping and the greater road grip of more non-skid blocks in the center.

You get the easy steering and smooth travel of wider riding-ribs.

You get the slow, even wear of closer-nested non-skid blocks and ribs.

You get more rubber in the tread—an average of two pounds more per tire.

—all of which adds up to 43% MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE at no extra cost to you!

That's the tire to buy for your Decoration Day trip

Goodyear has licked problem that baffled the tire industry—with the new "G-3". See it here!

IT TAKES a better tread to keep its grip on modern high-speed highways—with faster cars, quicker get-aways—more powerful brakes. All these strains grind away ordinary treads too fast.

But now we've got the answer! A tread that keeps its grip 43% longer—gives 43% more non-skid mileage. Grueling, grinding road tests show that it keeps its grip twice as long as competitive tires!

Read that list of extras in this new "G-3" All-Weather tire—and remember, you have to have "NON-SKID" before you can have "NON-SKID MILEAGE"—you have to have GRIP where you see it on this tire—in the center of the tread—if you want the extra miles of safety which you get in the "G-3". It costs no more!

Edman, a former resident of Jacksonville, and for four years manager of the Kresge 5c to 25c store in this city, died Sunday at the Miami Valley hospital, Dayton, Ohio, from an attack of pneumonia. Word of his untimely death was received by friends in this city yesterday, and through a bulletin at the Kresge stores, of which company he had been an employee for twenty years.

Born in Lynn, Mass., in 1893, Mr. Edman received his education in York, Pennsylvania, and entered the employ of the Kresge company in Lima, Ohio. He was later transferred to Jacksonville, and in 1918 was promoted to manager of this store, which position he held until 1922. He was later transferred to St. Joseph, Mo., thence to Paducah, Kentucky, then to Ann Arbor, Mich., and later to Dayton, Ohio. The latter store is a large one, and was successfully managed by Mr. Edman. He held this position at the time of his death.

Surviving are his wife and two sons. Mr. Edman was a member of Jacksonville lodge, No. 570, A. F. & A. M., was a 32d degree Mason and a Shriner. He also was a member of Illini lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. F. He will be buried with Masonic rites, the funeral services taking place in Ann Arbor, Michigan, today at 2 p. m. at the First Methodist church. Burial will be in Ann Arbor.

Mr. Edman was well known in Jacksonville, and made many friends in this city during his residence here.

HORNER STUDIES MAYPOLE CASE

Springfield, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—Governor Horner is expected to announce soon whether he will permit the extradition to Cleveland of Roy Maypole, alias Harry Burke, wanted on a charge of conspiracy to commit arson.

Affidavits were received from two Detroit women today to support Maypole's claim that he was not in Detroit when an attempt was made to burn a $1,000,000 warehouse in November, 1931.

Maypole is held at Chicago. He is a cousin of State Senator George Maypole, Chicago Democrat.

After a rehearing was granted on the governor's approval of the extradition, a hearing was held last week before De Witt Billman, executive secretary of the legislative reference bureau. Billman acted for the governor.

The A Capella Choir of sixty members of the Springfield High school gave a most entertaining concert Tuesday afternoon at the Murrayville Community High school. Murrayville is indeed fortunate to be privileged to hear such an unusually brilliant group of singers. Under the direction of Carl E. Lundgren the choir presented a group of Russian numbers portraying the characteristics of that nation in an excellent manner. The polyphonic type of singing of the choir was outstanding in its vibrant organ-life effects. Norman Davis artistically sang "Trees" by Rasback and a mixed quartet presented several popular numbers. Spirituals and sacred numbers made up the closing group by the choir.

The choir is making its annual tour accompanied by the principal, D. W. McCoy, and wife, Miss Frances Chatburn, supervisor of music of Springfield public schools, Carl E. Lundgren, director, and his mother, Mrs. Lundgren.

Following the concert at the school, they were served an excellent banquet dinner at 5 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church by the Ladies' Aid society of the church.

Other guests at the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Short of Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leitze, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Houldridge and Miss Bernice Chenoweth.

STOCK MARKET TRADING QUIET

Frederick Gardner
Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Beset by unfavorable mid-week trade news and the continued gloom in brokerage circles over the probable effects of federal control of speculation, the stock market settled lower today in quiet trading.

Volume on the stock exchange shrank to 655,990 shares compared with 830,980 in the preceding session. The average of 90 stocks closed seven-tenths of a point lower at 75.9.

Silver ceased to gleam in the foreground as a dominant speculative influence.

Wheat futures at Chicago closed ¾ to 1 cents a bushel higher after having been more than a cent a bushel up at one time. Rye, oats and corn firmed.

On the other hand, silver, hides and rubber moved lower. Cotton finished about unchanged.

Moderate strength in the dollar against foreign exchanges was attributed to the lack of inflationary implications seen in the silver proposals. High-grade bonds clung to a steady course while issues of lower rating eased in sympathy with tendencies in other markets.

Early pressure on stocks carried U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel, among outstanding shares, into new low ground for the year, but the list generally got fair support above recent low points.

Losses of fractions to about 2 points predominated at the finish among such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, General Motors, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Anaconda Copper, Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

American Telephone ran into selling, suffered at net loss of 2¾ points, on omission of the $2 quarterly dividend on common stock of its subsidiary, the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. Following the recent unfavorable rate decision against the company.

Brooklyn-Manhattan-Transit was a strong spot. It sold at a new 1934 top helped by the announcement the company had sold $8,000,000 in long-term bonds to pay off bank loans. Silver shares steadied after their decline yesterday.

"Iron Age" estimated steel operations were off three points at 58 percent of capacity. Further declines in steel scrap prices were taken as an indicator of the current seasonal trend in the industry.

The margin of gain in electric power production over 1933 was reduced to 11.2 percent from 11.9 percent the preceding week in the weekly figures of the Edison Electric Institute.

Traffic figures of individual railroads were encouraging, however, and pointed to a contra-seasonal gain in cvarloadings last week.

WHEAT VALUES SAG AT CLOSE

By John F. Boughan

Chicago, Maay 23.—(AP)—In a sudden outburst of strength late today, wheat jumped 2½ cents above the day's low point, but then profit-taking partly wiped out gains.

Winnipeg quotations led the advance in wheat, and increasingly adverse crop prospects were reported both from Canada and from Europe, as well as from sections of the United States not heretofore regarded as seriously affected by drought, Ohio and Indiana in particular. One unofficial estimate figured the Kansas crop as probably 65,000,000 bushels compared with the government's May 1 forecast of 99,000,000.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾-1 above yesterdayp's finish, corn ¼-½ up, oats unchanged to ¼ higher, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents down.

Eastern houses were conspicuous buyers during the late upswing of prices. Ohio reports current at this stage said that unless rains came quickly some parts of the state would not yield half a crop of wheat. Similar advices were at hand from Indiana. Meanwhile, Winnipeg messages told of indications of a major menace not only from drought but also from extraordinary infestation of grass-hoppers.

Much notice was taken of late reports that the Balkans, France, Germany and Italy showed likelihood of 1934 wheat crops 300,000,000 bushels less than last year. Roumania crop damage was authoritatively estimated at 50 percent, and Bulgaria at 20 to 40 percent. There were also Washington reports that department of agriculture specialists looked for strengthening of world wheat prices the coming year, with prospects that the four principal exporting countries would have a carry-over at least 100,000,000 bushels under that of last year.

Lack of broad general speculative wheat prices, however, during much of trade acted as a decided drag on the day, together with heaviness of the stock market.

Corn and oats reflected the trend of wheat prices.

Provisions were responsive to hog market downturns.

St. Patrick's Boy Gets Legion Award

Richard McGinnis was presented with the American Legion Award Wednesday morning at the St. Patrick's Parochial school. The presentation was made in behalf of the Legion by Dr. A. B. Applebee. The award goes each year to the boy in the graduating class deemed most outstanding in honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service.

A certificate of award a lapel button and a bronze medal were presented to young McGinnis. Dr. Applebee explained that an annual educational project is sponsored by the American Legion thruout the nation. The purpose of the American Legion School Award is to build in boys and girls those qualities of character for which the award is made, thus cultivating in their minds at the impressionable age the qualities of good citizenship. In making the presentation, Dr. Applebee said in part:

"For the past several years the local post of the American Legion has sponsored this program in Jacksonville. Awards have been presented to boys in the St. Patricks Parochial, the Salem Lutheran, Illinois State School for the Blind, and the David Prince Public School. This year the St. Patricks Parochial School of Jacksonville has chosen Richard McGinnis as winner of this award.

On behalf of the American Legion Post No. 279 of Jacksonville, Illinois, I am pleased to present you with this certificate," Dr. Applebee said.

"I am also pleased to present you with this miniature button which may be worn on your coat lapel at all times. This medal is bronze, uniform in type wherever used. It has been designed by the eminent sculptor T. Tait MacKenzie, and is a beautiful and noble conception. On this side appears the engrossed words: American Legion School Award for Courage, Honor, Service, Leadership and Scholarship. On this side are symbolic figures of the Navy and Army representing the land and sea forces, back to back, protecting the maritime commerce and the home life of the nation, with a border inscription, "For God and Country" and the inspiring motto of the Marines "Semper Fidelis" (Faithful Always).

"It is the purpose of the American Legion that this medal will be preserved in your home as a permanent token of honor and merit."

WIDOW OF FORMER FIRE CHIEF DIES

Mrs. Martha Mitchell, widow of James Mitchell, who was chief of the Jacksonville fire department nearly 40 years ago, died Tuesday in Chicago.

The remains will arrive in Jacksonville at 5:26 Thursday afternoon via the Alton railroad. Brief services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Reynolds Chapel, followed by interment in Diamond Grove cemetery where Mr. Mitchell is buried.

Miss Catherine Leocius of Beardstown was a Wednesday shopper here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Abernathy of Concord were callers here Wednesday.

LOST AND FOUND

STRAYED—Small brown and white female, part Boston bull dog. Return 232 W. Walnut. Reward. 5-22-3t.

Materials for New Hard Road Arriving

Car loads of supplies are moving into this city over the Alton for the construction of the section of Route 104 between this city and a point one mile east of Pisgah. A work train came into the local railroad yard yesterday morning from Roodhouse to provide switch engine service. About fifteen car loads of material will be handled daily by the Alton until this section of the road is completed. The work train will come to Jacksonville whenever needed to handle the switching.

The cars are switched to the Alton siding near the stockyards, and are there unloaded, the material being hauled to the scene of operations. Work on the road has begun and will be pushed rapidly. The route connects with U. S.-36 at a point a short distance west of the overhead bridge east of the city..

WORKERS BACK FROM UNION CONVENTION

Reports of the recent convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America held at Rochester, N. Y., were given Tuesday night at a meeting of the executive board of Local No. 199 by Bernie Doolin, Charles Bates and Louis Nierman, who returned from Rochester the first part of the week. The local delegation was the first to ever represent local clothing workers at a national convention. Bernie Doolin, president of the local union, was named a member of the convention resolutions committee on law.

The convention seated 361 delegates from 19 states and 49 cities, representing 135,000 clothing workers. The meetings were presided over by Sidney Hillman, the international president, who gave the opening convention address. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, also addressed the convention at the first session.

Other noted speakers were Mrs. Clifford Pinchot and Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

HUSBAND SEEKS DIVORCE IN SUIT FILED WEDNESDAY

James D. Stewart Wednesday filed a suit for divorce in the office of Circuit Clerk McCarthy against Isabelle Stewart, against whom he makes a statutory complaint. His attorney is A. Maurice Williams of Springfield.

The bill states that the couple were married in 1917 and lived together until June of 1931.

Chapin callers in the city yesterday included Mrs. Aldon Allen.

Seven I. C. Seniors are Elected to Osage

Osage, honorary society for senior men at Illinois college, made its annual selection of members at an impressive ceremony Wednesday morning. President Don Pierce presided at the assembly at which time the new members were announced. William Fay, of Jacksonville, Forrest England, of Morrisonville, Robert Hartman, of Jacksonville, Don Wilson of Edwardsville, Robert Thrall of Jacksonville, Cecil Giffen of Jacksonville and Roy Colin of Granite City were the seven men who had distinguished themselves during their three years of college work. They represent those qualities of leadership, participation in college activities, scholarship which are characteristic of an Osage member.

Thursday and Friday of this week, the new members will appear on the campus attired in a regulation outfit which is prescribed by the organization. An annual banquet and a secret initiation will be held June 2.

Miss Etta Maze of Sinclair visited with friends in Jacksonville Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Phillip Walker of Rockbridge was a shopper in the city Wednesday.

SYNOPSIS

Stanley Paige, beautiful, young society girl, is left penniless when her lawyer speculates with her money and loses. Stanley, however, cares little for the money, feeling that she has everything in the love of fascinating Drew Armitage. But when Drew breaks their engagement, saying it would be impossible to marry on his income, she is heartbroken. Rather than accept aid from her wealthy friends, Stanley rents a cheap furnished room and disappears from her exclusive circle to try and make her own way. Her friends agree that a better way would have been to marry handsome Perry Deverest, but Stanley cannot forget Drew. One day, she meets John Harmon Northrup, struggling young author. A strong friendship ensues and they become very necessary to one another. John Harmon is in love with Stanley but refrains from telling her because of Drew. At the beach, he catches her in his arms as she is about to fall. Her nearness intoxicates him. He tells himself he must never let it happen again but, try as he might, he cannot forget the ecstasy of that moment.

"I've never really forgiven you, you know, for running away," said Marcia.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

He passed Stanley and reached the beach first. She came out of the ocean, shaking the water from her eyes, pulling off her tight scarlet cap.

"Let's build us a fire, John Harmon. I'm simply freezing cold!"

They found driftwood and piled it up on the sand. The slow gray smoke hung heavily in the air, burst suddenly into blue flames, sprang into a leaping red blaze.

Stanley investigated the lunch basket and found some sandwiches. They ate them hungrily, sweaters tied about their shoulders, bodies relaxed and tingling in the warmth of the fire.

"I mustn't look at her," John Harmon thought desperately. "We must keep on talking," he thought. And there was nothing to say. "I've known this for a long time, but I've never admitted it. I never intended to—I don't intend to now." And he kept his eyes fixed on the ocean.

"It's been a day to remember," Stanley said softly, poking the fire with a sunbleached twig. "It's been lovely and gentle and sort of wistful. Haven't you felt like that about it, John Harmon?"

He nodded, still refusing her his eyes. "October is like that—beautiful and breathtaking and sort of poignant." He hesitated a bit over the last word. He was still a little shy about words like that. It was still easier to write them than to speak them.

"It's like an enchanting interlude," he went on slowly, "giving lavishly, promising nothing. That's what makes it so unbearably lovely, Stanley, the sense of elusiveness one feels about a day like this, the sense of flight, sustained for a moment, then gone forever." His voice stopped abruptly on a rough, tight note. It was not the day he was describing, but this other thing—this tremulous, fragile relationship between himself and this slim girl beside him . . . an enchanting interlude promising nothing, the sense of flight—sustained for a moment, then gone forever.

Stanley was not looking at him. Her eyes were on the fire. She answered him softly, slowly. "That's all life is—don't you think?—beautiful moments held for a space, then gone forever."

A searing little pain flicked John Harmon's heart. He knew that note in Stanley's voice, he'd heard it often enough, heaven knows! He knew what he would find in her eyes, if he had the courage to look, knew the twisted, gallant little smile that would be lying on her lips. She hadn't forgotten. She might never forget. He closed his eyes swiftly, felt again the soft, warm pressure of her body against his, saw again the dripping sweetness of her mouth, the drenched softness of her eyes. . . . Knew that it must never happen again, that he must forget that it had ever happened at all.

"I'm cold." Stanley sprang up suddenly. The fire had burned itself into a mound of crumbling coals, deep pink and molten gold; its edges already curling softly into a frail, white ash.

"Time to be going home, John Harmon," she told him, giving him her hands, pulling him to his feet, "summer's over."

For a shattering, nerve-tightened second, he felt that surely his arms must go around her, that his mouth must find hers and cling there, that nothing mattered except his need of her—then, he knew it wasn't so, that always, now and forever, her need of him was the important thing, the only thing that would ever matter.

He dropped her hands, turned and walked with her up the beach.

On the ride back into town John Harmon was very gay. He found a lot to talk about. He talked lightly and of inconsequential things, he talked against time and a moment he didn't want to remember and a quiver in Stanley's voice that he couldn't forget. And Stanley listened, and laughed now and then, and said very little. She had found something rather precious in the country that day, she didn't want to lose it—and words dispel so many things.

* * *

The third week in October Marcia Wingate came back to town, Nigel Stern bought a new and rare portfolio of etchings—and Stanley lost her job.

Marcia slid back into her own particular groove in town with the sleek agility of a cat returning to its own back yard. Connections temporarily lost during the summer were picked up again, certain changes were noted and accepted; a divorce here, a marriage there, a new name added to her list, an old one dropped, an intrigue smiled upon, a scandal covered up. But all in all it was much the same sort of thing, one season after another—much light conversation, lovely clothes, carefully concealed emotions and cleverly expressed opinions.

It was Marcia's world. She moved in it, gracefully and with a great deal of pleasant assurance. She was rarely bored. Marcia, it will be remembered, was not clever. She was not troubled with any confusing ideas about life. She was troubled, in fact, by very few ideas of any kind, any she had were always well-ordered and easily pigeon-holed.

She had not thought of Stanley in weeks, when one day she walked into her on Madison Avenue. She was crossing the pavement to her car when there, miraculously, was Stanley.

There was nothing miraculous about it at all, of course. Stanley passed here every night on her way home.

They shook hands. Marcia had considered whether to kiss her or not and the moment had passed.

"I've never really forgiven you, you know, for running away."

"I've never forgotten how good both you and Ned were."

"You're looking well, Stanley, a bit thin perhaps——"

"You're awfully fit yourself, Marcia. Have a nice summer?"

"Oh, the usual thing—rather more golf than usual. It's sort of nice to be back in town. You'll let us see something of you this winter, won't you, Stanley?"

"That would be nice—we could have tea sometime."

"You must come to dinner—just Ned and you and I and, perhaps, Perry."

Stanley's color deepened suddenly. "That sounds delightful, Marcia."

"You'll come, then? I'll telephone you. Well, it's been splendid seeing you. Ned will be glad to know you're looking so well. Good-bye."

"Good-bye, Marcia."

Stanley watched the long beige car nose its way arrogantly through the traffic—of course, Marcia wouldn't call her up—she would mean to, perhaps, but she would forget about it and eventually, when she thought about it, she would remember she didn't have her address.

Stanley turned and hurried on, a little smile on her lips, her eyes a bit grim. She had belonged and now she didn't. Marcia wasn't a snob but she had an instinct about things like that. Of course, if Stanley had chosen to marry Perry Deverest instead of fantastically running off to live in an impossible way with impossible people—the smile tightened on Stanley's lips.

SUGGESTED GIFTS FOR THESE GRADUATES

CONGRATULATIONS!

1934 Roll Call

An event of great importance will soon occur in the lives of many young men and women in Jacksonville. The occasion is their graduation from preparatory high school. Both Jacksonville high school and Routt high school will hold commencement exercises within a week. The entire community joins in congratulating them. Their accomplishment in scholastic work should be only the forerunner of success in later life. Certainly this important occasion in their lives should be marked with an appropriate gift, suggestions for which appear on this page.

HORNER DIRECTS INDIGNATION AT SURETY FIRMS

Claims They Dictated Passage Of Several Measures

Springfield, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Because local officials in Illinois have had trouble this year in obtaining bonds, the indignation of Governor Horner was publicly directed at surety companies today.

Further legislation to help tax collectors was recommended as the governor, withholding his signature, permitted two special session bills to become law. Except for bonding difficulties, they would have been vetoed.

The bills repealed a provision in other measures, which were enacted last month, to the effect that bonded officials would not be responsible for bank losses provided that the depositories were approved by the county board, supervisor or town clerk, as the case may be.

Mr. Horner said the surety companies, "banded together in an association," dictated the passage of the bills, which were introduced by Rep. Howard Doyle, Decatur democrat.

The Governor's statement said in part:

"Notwithstanding by indignation at the attitude of these surety companies, who, doing business in this state, should be cooperating in a public service, and my disinclination to approve these bills, the present necessities in the manner of bonds of local public fiscal officers deter me from vetoing them.

"Public officials throughout the state whose duty it is to collect taxes and public funds for municipal corporations have urged me to permit these bills to become law, so that they can obtain surety bonds as required by law.

"Without surety bonds, these public officials are unable to perform their functions of government. Many of these officers are unable to secure qualified personal sureties.

"Some of them, so I am told, in violation of statute but because of the refusal of surety companies to execute bonds under the previously enacted law, are proceeding with the collection of taxes—an indispensable function of government. Others have furnished bonds with individual sureties who are of insufficient property worth to protect the public treasuries of their respective communities. This is a matter of grave public concern."

The governor called upon local authorities to see that public funds are protected until another legislative session can make changes in the law.

New federal regulations prohibit national bank officers from acting as bond sureties and tax collectors have found it difficult to get other persons to sign the large bonds required, as a result of bank closing during recent years.

Mr. Horner also filed with the secretary of state, unsigned a bill repealing the discount allowed for early payment of the second installment of taxes. He expressed the opinion that the bill may be unconstitutional because it is outside the third special session call. It will not become effective in time to affect 1934 tax payments.

Action on the three bills completed the governor's work on the measures passed by the special sessions.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

Los Angeles, May 24.—(AP)—Appeals to President Roosevelt and Governor Rolph for funds to fight an outbreak of infantile paralysis here were dispatched today by County Health Officer J. L. Pomeroy, who reported about 100 known cases in the county.

President Roosevelt was asked to make available a portion of the $1,000,000 recently raised for the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia, for preventive and control work here.

Youths Will Try To Make Journey In 26-Foot Yawl

Alameda, Calif., May 24.—(AP)—Bound on an adventurous cruise across the Pacific three young men sailed from here today aboard their 26-foot Yawl Sally and said they hoped to reach the Hawaiian islands within 30 days.

Jack Blinn, 22, a senior in engineering at the University of California, owns the boat. Wiliam Whalen, 19, and Edward Hales, 16, are the other sailors. They have food enough to last 60 days and plan to hold use of their water supply to one gallon a day.

The journey was accomplished some years ago by a 35-foot vessel.

BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE BILL PASSES HOUSE

Senate Measure To Postpone Action Cast Aside

By Clarence M. Wright
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—The House today unanimously cast aside a Senate bill to postpone permanent bank deposit insurance for a year and passed its own measure which bore a rider holding a possible promise of a billion dollars in aid for depositors in closed banks.

Under the lash of its leaders, the House railroaded the bill to passage so that it might go to conference early next week for an adjustment of differences with the measure approved more than two months ago by the Senate.

The two main differences are:

The Senate voted to continue the present deposit insurance plan, guaranteeing 100 per cent deposits up to $2,500. The House raised the guarantee to $5,000. Both measures postpone until July 1, 1935, inauguration of the permanent plan guaranteeing 100 per cent deposits to $10,000, 75 per cent to $50,000 and 50 per cent over $50,000.

The promise of a billion dollars to aid depositors in closed banks as contained in the provision which would authorize the federal deposit insurance Corporation to expend its present $450,000,000 capital five times. Half this sum, the House rider provided, might be used by the Deposit Insurance Corporation to buy or lend on assets in banks which closed between December 31, 1929, and January 1, 1934.

The Senate bill would authorize the corporation to expand its capital three times.

The House voted for an expansion of five times, and decreed that half of the total might be used by the deposit insurance corporation to buy or lend on assets in banks which closed between December 31, 1929, and January 1, 1934.

The House bill removed the stipulation in present law that state banks must be members of the Federal Reserve system by July 1, 1936, to have their deposits insured by the Insurance Corporation. The Senate approved no such provision.

In its consideration of the bill, the House swiftly steamrolled advocates of the McLeod bill, which would direct the RFC to buy up assets in closed banks at 100 per cent value and pay off their depositors.

Representative McLeod (R-Mich) made a futile attempt to change language in the bill so the Insurance Corporation would be "directed" instead of "empowered" to buy closed banks' assets. The democratic machine rolled him under, 127 to 60.

WIDOW OF CIVIL WAR VETERAN TO BE BURIED HERE

Remains of Mrs. Martha Mitchell Arrive From Chicago; Funeral Today

The remains of Mrs. Martha Mitchell, 93 years old, former resident of this city, who passed away at her home in Chicago, Wednesday, arrived in Jacksonville yesterday and were taken to the Reynolds Mortuary, where funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Dr. M. L. Pontius, pastor of Central Christian Church officiating. Burial will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Mitchell was the widow of Lieutenant James Mitchell, Mexican and Civil War veteran who had a distinguished war record. She was born in Norfolk, England, and came to America at the age of 10. Her husband died 25 years ago.

The Mitchell family resided in Jacksonville for many years the family home being on Sandusky street. Altho Mrs. Mitchell left Jacksonville for Chicago, twenty-five years ago, she has many friends here who will learn of her passing with sincere regret. She visited the grave of her husband here three years ago and at that time renewed many of her old acquaintances.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mary E. Sutton, Mrs. Russell B. Agnew and Mrs. Curt Von Der Heide, two sons, William R. and Frederick C. Mitchell, all of whom have arrived in Jacksonville to attend the funeral.

Von McClure of Ashland was a Thursday caller in Jacksonville.

IMPEACHMENT FAVORED BY ICKES, CLAIM

Interior Department Secretary Makes Denial

By Gerald Miller
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—Representative Simpson (R. Ill.) asserted tonight that efforts to impeach three Illinois federal judges came from Secretary Ickes of the interior department and General Counsel Donald Richberg of the national recovery administration.

Denials immediately were forth coming from both Ickes' office and from Representative Tom McKeown (D. Okla.) chairman of the house judiciary subcommittee which conducted the investigation that resulted in a report accusing Federal Judge Charles O. Woodward, James H. Wilkerson, and Walter C. Lindley of administering receivership cases in a manner "open to criticism."

Vote Impeachment

The full judiciary committee has already voted to recommend Woodward's impeachment.

McKeown laid what he called "agitation against action" in the cases of the three judges to an "active" lobby of Chicago attorneys. The latter, he said, were anxious to retain the trio. He threatened to start contempt citations against the attorneys, he said, unless they ceased their activities.

Simpson, who prefaced his declaration by saying Ickes and Richberg were both in his congressional district, and by admitting that Ickes had done considerable toward bringing about his defeat in the April primaries, said the secretary was bent upon elevating Richberg to the federal bench.

"Ickes," he said, "has already had his hand in naming one man to the federal bench, and he insists on naming another.

"Of course, I am repeating only what is common rumor on the floor of the house."

Meanwhile it was reported by an ordinarily authentic source that the judiciary committ will take no action in the Wilkerson case.

There was no explanation. The member of congress who supplied the information declared he was not at liberty to divulge more.

Members of the committee, which held but a short session today and adjourned until tomorrow said they would then hear two witnesses whom they refused to name.

DILLINGER GANG IS BLAMED FOR TWO KILLINGS

Two East Chicago Police Officers Killed By Machine Gunners

East Chicago, Ind., May 25.—(AP)—A carload of gunmen, thought to be John Dillinger and his gang of outlaws, shot two policemen to death here tonight when the officers sought to stop them while speeding through the city.

The two officers, Martin O'Brien and Floyd Mulvihill, had as their special mission the job of halting all cars that looked suspicious. They tried to stop the car which was speeding south out of East Chicago toward Gary. About two miles south of the city they forced the suspected car to the curb.

Both officers stepped from the police car. Instantly there was a burst of machine gun fire and both men dropped to the ground.

The car fled south, passing motorists had heard the gunfire and raced to the spot. The policemen were dead, however, and word of their killing was quickly flashed to police at East Chicago. Several motorists attempted to chase the speeding car, but were outdistanced.

Police said they could not definitely point to Dillinger as the killer of the policemen.

Both men were well acquainted with Dillinger and part of their job was to keep watch for the desperado.

Police said they recalled that on his last appearance here, Dillinger and some of his mob shot and killed policeman William F. O'Malley in robbing the First National bank.

Both of the slain policemen were veterans. O'Brien was married and the father of three children.

The last authentic trace of Dillinger was found in Chicago April 30 when the car which his henchmen had stolen from a man in south St. Paul during their mad dash for freedom from a resort at Little Bohemia, Wis., was found abandoned on the north side.

UNEMPLOYED PARADE

Pana, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Central Illinois unemployed paraded through the streets of Pana this afternoon, carrying communists and anti-administration banners. After the parade, the demonstrators met at the park. Authorities did not inferfere with the demonstration.

DIVORCE GRANTED

El Paso, Tex., May 24.—(AP)—Ned Sparks, motion picture actor, and his wife, Mercedes De Caballero, were granted a mutual consent divorce today in the Juarez, Mexico, civil court.

Woodson callers in the city yesterday included Charles Theis.

Sword for Japan's Baby Prince

Japanese swordmakers seem to be overdoing their preparedness as they forge a sword for the crown prince, who's still in his cradle, but it's a custom to which the Nipponese cling. The shining steel blade held here by Matazo Kato, imperial swordsmith, for his assistant's inspection, will be presented to the crown prince at his first festival.

Two Killed and Many Injured When Jeering Crowd Battles National Guardsmen at Toledo

KING ALFONSO AND QUEEN MAY SEPARATE SOON

Will Ask Pope For An Annulment Reports Claim

By the Associated Press.

Reports that former King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain intend to seek an annulment of their 26-year-old marriage were published Thursday in Madrid, taken seriously in Paris, and scoffed at in Vatican City.

The newspaper La Libertad in Madrid published a report from France that the couple would ask the pope for an annulment soon.

Close friends of the former king and queen in Paris said there was some foundation for the report, but that the royal couple had taken no action, because of their ages and because an annulment might have a bad effect upon the hope for restoration of the throne.

"Ridiculous" was the comment of church prelates at Vatican City, who pointed out that church law grants annulments only for the gravest moral and spiritual reasons, which were said not to exist in the case of the royal couple.

The churchmen pointed out that King Alfonso was known as "his most Catholic majesty" and was a loyal member of the church.

Spanish clerical circles confirmed this reaction, and called attention to the fact that a similar report in 1926 had proved unfounded.

Another report regarding the former reigning family published in Madrid today was that the engagement of Alfonso's son, Juan, heir apparent to the non-existent throne, to Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, will be announced soon.

This report was said in Paris and Italy to be without foundation.

Toledo, O., May 25.—(Friday)—(AP)—A jeering crowd of 6,000, refusing to be cowed by rifle fire and gas barrages, battled 740 Ohio national guardsmen hour after hour with bottles and bricks at the electric autolite plant last night.

At 12 midnight (EST) the casualties had mounted to two dead, killed by the militia's fire, eleven known injured and perhaps scores of others hurt but unaccounted for in hospital lists.

As the battles continued military authorities began to investigate the circumstances of the rifle fire yesterday afternoon.

Although three moves for peace were under way, the threat of a general strike, discussed for two weeks in labor unions, again appeared to be gaining ground. Last night 275 union electrical workers voted to authorize their business agent to call them out on strike at any time he desires.

The dead:

Steve Cyigon, 20, unemployed youth who had just returned from a California CCC camp.

Frank Hubay, 27, who lost his job at a battery shop Monday.

A 15-year old boy, David De Wood, was taken to women's and children's hospital with a wound in his leg. One report said he had been shot, but another gave the cause as a bayonet wound.

Other known victims of the gunfire:

Willie Abel, 26, who was in a serious condition.

Joe Weislek, 32, who said he was an auto-lite worker, shot in the leg.

James Lamping, 32, shot in the left arm.

The spearhead of the riot was within a few blocks of Cherry street, a main traffic artery which outlines the business section.

The shooting started after rioters, laying down a barrage of stones and other missiles, forced troopers to withdraw almost a block at the west end of the segregated district.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson at Columbus ordered Brigadier General Connely, in charge of the troops, to confer with officers of the Auto-Lite company in an attempt to persuade them to close the plant.

If the officers declined, the adjutant general indicated, the state would take action to shut down operations.

Trucks loaded with gas and an armored car would be sent here tomorrow, he said. Ten men attached to a national guard medical unit also will be sent to the strike area.

The shooting climaxed, etc., picking up.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Hammond, Ind., May 24.—(AP)—Walter Metol, 22, East Chicago, charged with robbing the postal telegraph office, entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to the Lake county criminal court under bonds of $5,000 by city Judge Virgil E. Whitaker today.

Methol is alleged to have forced manager A. B. Harlan with a pistol to turn over cash, and then to have escaped after binding and gagging him in a back room.

WITHDRAWS RESIGNATION

Oklahoma City, May 24.—(AP)—Dr. Eugene M. Antrim withdrew his resignation as president of Oklahoma City University today. The board of trustees met behind closed doors without re-electing Antrim or naming a successor.

FACULTY NAMED AT ASHLAND H. S.

Ashland, Ill., May 25.—The board of education tonight announced that appointments to the Ashland High school faculty had been completed.

R. E. Traughber, who has been track coach and assistant in other sports at Taylorville high school was appointed coach and social science teacher.

R. B. Spenninger, formerly principal at Warrensburg High school will teach science.

Miss Christine Six of Ashland, will again teach English.

Miss Genevieve Hayes who has been an instructor in the local school will also teach English.

Miss Nancy N. Tormey, from MacMurray College for Women, Jacksonville, will have charge of the commercial department.

Fred Prusha, will teach mathematics and also serve as principal.

Charles Weaver, was reappointed janitor.

JUDGE DECIDES CASE IN FAVOR OF BLUE EAGLE

Government Does Not Have To Buy From Ford Company

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—The Blue Eagle emerged with strengthened wings today from a courtroom clash with an agent of the Ford Motor company.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme Court held Ford was thwarting the recovery act and that the government did not have to buy his products.

"It would seem unreasonable that the president should be compelled to contract with any company, no matter how wealthy or powerful, if that company is thwarting the recovery act and defying the government to enforce it," the court declared.

"It is not reasonable that the government should be required to deal with any company blocking this great act of national recovery."

Application Refused.

Justice O'Donoghue refused the application of the Northwest Motor company of Chevy Chase, Md., for an injunction to prevent the interior and agriculture departments from rejecting its bids on approximately 1,000 Ford trucks and automobiles.

The Ford Motor company has refused to sign the NRA code for the automobile industry.

In deciding the case, the court termed the national recovery act "an emergency act, granting wide sweeping powers to the executive."

Attorneys for the Ford agent and the government, Justice O'Donoghue pointed out, agreed the recovery act itself was constitutional.

He said the order issued by President Roosevelt under the act, requiring bidders for government contracts to certify compliance with NRA agreements, was reasonable and valid.

The court agreed with the recent decision of J. R. McCarl, comptroller general, that bidders for government contracts must certify not only that they have complied with NRA agreements, but that manufacturers of their products have complied.

In its bids on government truck business the Northwest Motor company certified it was complying with NRA requirements, but refused to state positively that the Ford Motor company was complying. McCarl ordered the bids rejected because of this fact.

Counsel for the Ford agency argued President Roosevelt had usurped powers belonging to Congress and that the government would save $30,000 by accepting each bid of the Northwest company.

The agent served notice of appeal from the court's decision.

$5,000 REWARD IS OFFERED FOR JOHN DILLINGER

Governors of Five States Have Put Signatures to Proclamation

Springfield, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Governors of five states today officially posted a reward of $5,000 for the capture of John Dillinger.

A proclamation, signed by the governors of and bearing the official seals of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Michigan, offered the reward to anyone who delivers said John Dillinger" to any sheriff or sheriff's representative in the five states.

The reward for the capture of the elusive murderer, object of the nation's greatest manhunt, was proposed recently by Governor Henry Horner of Illinois.

Each governor promised to pay $1,000 for Dillinger's capture upon the territory in which the desperado has concentrated his banditry. Signers with Mr. Horner were Governors Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, George White of Ohio, F. B. Olson of Minnesota and William A. Comstock of Michigan.

The proclamation, field here with the secretary of state this afternoon, was signed in turn by the governors in their offices at Indianapolis, Columbus, St. Paul, Lansing and Springfield.

As worded, the document said nothing about the "dead or alive" capture of Dillinger. The award apparently would not apply if he is captured in another state.

ELECT MODERATOR

Cleveland, O., May 24.—(AP)—Dr. William Chalmers Covert of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian board of Christian education, today was elected moderator of the Presbyterian church at the general assembly here.

Two ballots were required to reach the decision. Rev. Herbert Booth Smith of Los Angeles and Rev. James C. Connell of upper Darby, Pa., were the other candidates for the office.

WILL EXHIBIT AUTO

Topeka, May 24.—(AP)—The automobile in which Clyde Barrow, southwest desperado, and Bonnie Parker, his gun-totin' Moll, met a violent death, is to be placed on exhibit.

Jesse Warner, owner of the automobile which was stolen here on April 29, contracted today with a promoter to use the automobile for exhibition purposes. It is to be brought here first and then probably taken to the World's Fair at Chicago.

Curiosity Costs Farmers Money On Livestock Market

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Curiosity has been costing farmers money on week.

Traders said today that the heavy influx of hogs this week, and consequently lower prices, was due to the fact that many farmprs decided to come to town and see the ruins of the stockyards and brought their hogs along.

The yards hav operated as usual this week despite a huge fire Saturay night which razed about 80 acres with an estimated damage of $8,000,000.

STEEL INDUSTRY WILL MAINTAIN OPEN SHOP PLAN

Eugene Grace Makes Declaration At Annual Dinner

New York, May 24.—(AP)—The nation's steel industry will continue to "maintain the open shop," Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, declared tonight at a dinner of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He said he believed he voiced the opinion of everyone present.

Employee representation plans, Grace said, are practical because "they embody a mutuality of interests. They do not provide for outsiders or organizations foreign to our industry to dictate to the men and management of the industry as to what constitutes proper relationship between them."

By continuing to maintain the open shop, Grace declared the industry would "insure to employees the recognition and reward for individual effort as against the closed union shop where all men are equal."

Schwab Resigns

Charles M. Schwab, who in 1927 succeeded Judge Elbert H. Gary as chairman of the board of the institute, resigned today.

The chairman of the board of Bethlehem steel gave his advanced age, his health and his "inability to take any active part" in the institute's work as the reason.

The resignation was accepted by the board after the annual meeting of the institute heard a denunciation of "professional unions" by T. M. Girdler, chairman of the republic steel corporation.

Schwab addressed the meeting several hours before he offered his resignation and declared the steel industry was in a better position to govern itself than ever before.

"I believe," he said, "that the greatest accomplishment of all the legislation which we have witnessed in the past 18 months has been the fostering of self-government in industry. If, out of the terrible times of the past four years, we have learned the lesson of self-rule, the reward will be worth the cost."

The board of the institute named no successor to Schwab and set no date for a meeting to do so.

It immediately adopted a resolution of regret.

Girdler, like other speakers at the institute, gave praise to the company unions.

"If anyone thinks he is going to get any temporary advantage by fooling around with a professional union," he said, "I wish he would get it out of his head."

Company employe representatives get better results than union men, he contended.

"We are not going to deal with the Amalgamated or any other professional union," he continued, "even if we have to shut down."

W. A. Irvin, president of the U. S. Steel corporation, told the institute's 1,200 members:

"Employes do not want to deal with their employers at long range if they can do so face to face."

E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, said uncertainty caused by varied opinions as to what is necessary to reestablish prosperity "makes it very easy to lose our long established moorings."

"We have always believed in our principles," he said. "Now, more than ever, we should hold fast to them and if necessary fight for them."

MRS. MATHEWS IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Bert Mathews, Rural Route three, escaped serious injury but her Chevrolet coupe was badly damaged in an automobile and truck collision last night on East State street near Spalding place when the car she was driving and a truck driven by Leo Cummins, of Jerseyville, came together. Mrs. Mathews was removed to a local hospital where examination disclosed that she had been injured about the face, bruised on one hand and arm, and was suffering from shock.

The collision with the truck upset the coupe, damaging fenders, breaking glass, and twisting the frame. The truck, which is being used by the construction crew working on Route 104, was not damaged.

POSTPONE ACTION

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—The House today approved a year's postponement of the permanent Federal Deposit insurance plan, but accepted a banking committee recommendation that the insurance should cover deposits up to $5,000 instead of $2,500 as law now provides.

3 POWER NAVAL CONFERENCE IS SOUGHT, CLAIM

United States, Japan And Great Britain Consider Move

By Lloyd A. Lehrbas.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—Preliminary diplomatic explorations into the feasibility of discussing naval affairs prior to the 1935 naval conference are under consideration by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

The explorations have not progressed to a point yet, however, where any official statement concerning the proposed preliminary conference or discussions—with especial reference to Pacific naval questions—can be made by American officials.

It was disclosed that the United States did not take the initiative, but that the first cautious overture were instituted by Great Britain or Japan.

Japan previously has made cautious the United States and Great Britain attempts to discern the attitude of toward the preliminary discussions. Hirosi Saito, the Japanese ambassador, has not announced, however, that he made any such overtures to the state department. The ambassador was absent from Washington tonight.

Japan Interested.

Japan's interest in a preliminary discussion of naval affairs is based on the fact that it will seek revision of the naval limitations imposed in the London and Washington treaties at the next general conference to be held.

Discussions on the numerous questions involved, including revision of the present 5-5-3 ratio, would, Japanese officials believe, do a great deal toward clarifying the issues to be raised at the general conference. It also is expected that the time and place for the general conference would be settled by the discussion.

The London treaty specifically provides for a naval conference sometime during 1935, but no place or time has been set.

The London treaty expires on December 31, 1936, but the Washington treaty will continue in existence unless denounced by one of the signatory powers before December 31, 1934.

Although unofficial hints have been made that Japan would denounce the treaty before the time limit expired, the United States has not yet been informed of any definite action by the Japanese government.

Secretary Swanson told newspapermen yesterday that the United States would consider extending its naval bases in the Pacific if Japan built its navy beyond present treaty limits.

By Glenn Babb.
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

Tokyo, May 24.—(AP)—Maintaining that the 5-5-3 naval ratios "menace the Japanese empire's safety," Rear Admiral Tsuneyoshi Sakano, chief of the navy's propaganda bureau, today gave notice of Japan's objections to an extension of the present limitations beyond 1936.

"New agreements fairer and more reasonable and affording Japan genuine assurance of security" must replace the London and Washington treaties, Sakano said in a written statement to the press, which, however, did not mention the matter of parity with the United States and Great Britain.

"The Washington treaty was framed to meet special conditions immediately after the war," the statement said, "and now long outdated."

Witness Refuses To "Swear" When Case Is Called

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Judge Matthew Hartigan asked witness Harry Merkin today to raise his right hand and be sworn.

"I cannot swear," Merkin protested. "I am a Christian. Matthew forbids it."

"Say," interposed the clerk, "you shouldn't call the court by his first name."

"I wasn't talking about the judge," Merkin explained. "I was talking about Matthew in the bible, who says you musn't swear."

So Merkin held up his right hand and "solemnly affirmed" he would tell the whole truth about a window breaking episode in which he was summoned as an eye witness.

FILES SUIT

Los Angeles, May 24.—(AP)—Ruth Roland, former motion picture star, brought suit for $25,000 damages today against Billie Dove, another actress alleging her army was mangled last March 19 when Miss Dove's police dog attacked her as she called at Miss Dove's residence.

Miss Roland asserted she never would be able to wear an evening gown without great embarrassment because of the scars resulting from the wounds.

SET TRIAL DATE

San Francisco, May 24.—(AP)—The trial of Millard Hickman, marine engineer, was set for July 9 when he appeared in Superior Court today and pleaded not guilty to a charge of slaying Miss Louise Jeppesen of Ogden, Utah.

The body of the girl, who had been assaulted and strangled, was found in Golden Gate park here May 16.

The Goose Must Lay Again

The gas tax goose in Illinois has already laid two golden eggs for the relief fund. The state is now half way thru the second egg, which has yet to be approved by the people. First the state authorized a $20,000,000 bond issue. Later there came a $30,000,000 authorization, which must be made a bond issue by vote of the people in November. The entire $50,000,000 is to be repaid from the gasoline tax.

Now comes the report that the remainder of the $30,000,000 will probably used up during the coming summer and autumn. There is no provision for next winter, and Illinois relief agencies are beginning to worry. Must the goose lay another egg? Can she lay another egg? The first question may be readily answered in the affirmative; but the second requires some thought.

Apparently Illinois has a permanent relief problem, one which must be met by some sort of consistent financing, and not by emergency measures. The unusual relief burden has been called an emergency so long that we are beginning to wonder just how long an emergency can last before it is recognized as a permanent fixture.

If the next relief money cannot come from the gas tax, where can it be found? Can Illinois find another goose to lay golden eggs? It is a foregone conclusion that if the need continues to exist, it will be met. Perhaps the state should consider the problem of finding employment for those who are on relief, so that some benefit may be realized from the enormous expenditures the state must make to keep thousands of families from starvation.

Leisure For Learning

We wonder how many people who have been given more leisure by the shorter working hours or thru increased income and improved machinery have really found useful ways to employ that leisure. A writer deplores the fact that so many who have had good educations have allowed their education to cease with graduation. At this commencement season, the graduate should make up his mind that the diploma he gets does not represent all he is ever going to know.

In the classroom there is handed to the student the keys to the rich storehouses of knowledge. All too often the young man or woman throws away the keys as a part of the commencement ceremonies. Yet every student has some subject in which he or she is greatly interested. Leisure time after graduation might be employed in further study of that pet subject.

Older people waste their time in all sort of ways, never thinking they may turn it to profit and enjoyment. Just because one is no longer compelled to read good books or study classic literature is no excuse for not reading the best. The opportunities for continued intellectual improvement today are almost unlimited. Maybe if we had to walk ten miles to borrow a book and study it by a pine knot fire, we would be more appreciative. But that is no longer necessary. We could be much more cultured than we are if we would remember that we never grow too old to learn.

Do You Feed or Eat?

It has been said that the early Americans, busy in the conquest of a new country, fed rather than ate. Their diet was heavy, loaded with calories that would make a modern diet fan gasp. They did not have a wide variety of food, and what they had was prepared in quantity, not so much to gratify taste as to provide sustenance for hard-working people.

But with the arrival of labor-saving machinery and the improvement in kitchen equipment, food became less heavy and more tasty. In the early days people who came from foreign countries, where quick distribution made a variety of food available and good cooking made it worth eating, went back home and wrote books about us in which they said we were a race of barbarians. They didn't like the grub they got here.

Americans who could afford it went abroad and tasted foreign cooking. They returned and regaled less fortunate neighbors with stories of the good things they had to eat. But times changed and in these later days Americans have enjoyed all of the tasty viands they could afford, and today there is no country on earth where food is more plentiful or of greater variety. Those who have the money to buy can eat anything they want.

Today there is a greater variety of food available to even the most economically dependent. Canned foods have relieved the housewife of much drudgery; oil and gas have replaced coal as cooking fuel, making a great difference in the temperature of the kitchen. Standing over a hot stove is no longer the bane of the housewife. But the food is more delicious than ever. Most of us have learned to eat and have relegated feeding to the past.

Brand Whitlock

During the world war American diplomats abroad occupied trying positions. The warring nations often turned over to our ambassadors and ministers the administration of their affairs when their own diplomats were handed their passports. There were countless problems arising daily and delicate situations were so numerous that our representatives were kept in a state of nervous tension.

The man who occupied the most trying situation of all was the American minister to Belgium, Brand Whitlock, who passed away Thursday in Cannes, France, after a long illness. In the early days of the war when the Germans poured thru the smashed Belgian defenses, this man stood out against inhuman treatment of the conquered by the victorious Germans. He protested against the deportation of Belgians to Germany for war work, and finally succeeded in stopping the practice.

He sent a report to Washington of the execution of Edith Cavell, which enraged the German press. Despite bad health Whitlock stuck to his post, returning only once to recuperate. He did his best to minister to a stricken people in the face of a remorseless enemy. The Belgian people remember him with even more veneration than do the people of his own land. After all his greatest service was perhaps to the Belgians.

Bigger And Better Stock Yards

Chicago is going to do the same thing that many another city or town has done after the visit of a devastating fire—rebuild the burned area in better condition than its former state.

This universal urge is the one chief recompense for what seems at the time the fire is blazing to be an unmixed loss.

It is announced that the burned district in the Chicago stockyards will be rebuilt with structures "more in keeping with Chicago's future," according to F. H. Prince, head of Armour & Co., the chief factor in the financial set-up of Packingtown. The Exchange building, which housed 100 commission firms, will first receive attention of the rebuilders, and its new form will be modern in every respect. The International amphitheater, where the great stock shows have been held every December, will likewise be rebuilt in better form to serve its purpoges, and will be ready for next December's International show as usual.

When the rebuilding is done, there will be two distinct Chicago stockyards—the "old" and the "new."

Ten Commandments for Wives

From the Boston Globe.

Husbands and fathers were lifted out of customary obscurity recently and set upon a pedestal before which wives and mothers were urged to do obeisance at a meeting of the club women at Springfield, Mass.

The champion of the "head of the household," was not—as might be suspected—a long suffering husband, but a prominent clubwoman in her own right, Mrs. Edith Abercrombie Snow of Worcester, who listed ten commandments she urged all wives to follow as a guide to a successful and happy married life.

The commandments listed by Mrs. Snow follow:

1. Do not be extravagant.
2. Keep your home clean and attractive.
3. Never permit yourself to look unattractive.
4. Do not spend too much time with your mother, to the detriment of your own household.
5. Cultivate a wide community of interests together.
6. Cultivate a sense of humor.
7. Be attentive in the little ways.
8. Remember that men are just as sensitive in their feelings as women and act accordingly.
9. Be tactfully feminine.
10. Do not disparage your husband in public or listen to gossip about him.

AN OUTRAGE

From the Detroit News.

A Chicago boy slept three weeks in a roll-top desk. Nothing annoys the busy business man like having to hunt golf balls in a desk that has been slept in.

SO THEY SAY!

There's no excuse for any man who has two arms for going to a manicure parlor. He can clean his own nails, with his jack knife.
—Tom Mix, famous cowboy.

I wouldn't swap this (holding up baby clothes) for all the heavyweight championships there ever were.
—Jack Dempsey.

I got one good fright and one big bruise, but I found ballooning just as wonderful as I expected it to be.
—Mrs. Jean Piccard, who will accompany her husband on a stratosphere flight.

If the federal government insures all mortgages, in the next depression, we'll all go bloole.
—Maco Stewart, Galveston, Texas, building and loan association president.

Nazi women must cheerfully leave the education of children to men who can prepare their sons so much better for "heroic sacrifice" upon battlefields.
—Miriam Beard, author.

I've known the president since I was 3 and he was 13, and I've never talked politics or business with him nor made any recommendations for jobs.
—Vincent Astor.

I guess the snatch racket is not such a paying proposition as we thought.
—Roy A. Williams, convicted kidnaper.

The smaller the world becomes, the less peaceful it is.
—Dr. William M. Lewis, president of Lafayette College.

The New Deal in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington, May 24.—Little bugs are flying through the office window and getting on my neck. Unimportant? Well, not insignificant, anyway.

The bugs are attracted by the light. Hundreds of New Dealers get little bugs on their necks every night. This city is still wild about night work. And hardly any government buildings have screens.

When the little bugs get on the necks of the New Dealers, it certainly doesn't help the country. Not that the little bugs bite. But no man can concentrate and do his best work when he has to keep brushing them off his neck.

If the New Deal seems to sag slightly from now on, at least one guess at the reason will be those darned little bugs.

It is also sharply to the point that the little bugs are harbingers of summer, and summer, in Washington, means many waves of blazing heat.

The president is always happy when he hears about the little bugs, because heat is his strongest ally when he wants to get rid of Congress. The president himself sits in the air-cooled White House and doesn't have to go out.

Congress has air-cooling, too, but it has to go outdoors sooner or later.

So the hotter it gets, the faster Congress works to clean up and get away.

Much Lip About Lipsticks

Weather, rather than little bugs, is responsible for such senatorial repartee as this, which occurred during consideration of the food and drugs bill:

Senator Copeland: "I hold in my hand the photograph of a beautiful woman and I submit it to the senator from Illinois."

Senator Neely: "I object!"

Senator Lewis: "I object to these expressions of envy on the part of eminent senators."

Senator Neely: "Not envy, but fear of suspension of proper senatorial activities prompted my objection."

(Senator Ham Lewis starts passing the picture around).

Senator Neely: "Before the senator absorbs the attention of the entire Senate in the photograph of the beautiful girl, let me inquire if this bill contains any inhibition against excessive use of lipstick."

Senator Copeland: "No I am glad to say that it does not."

Senator Neely: "I should be much more enthusiastic about the bill if it contained such provision. The excessive use of lipstick has greatly increased the world's troubles. Lipstick is not healthful for women. It is not safe for men."

Senator Copeland: "Does the senator wish to testify on the subject at any great length?"

(Neely declined. The photograph was one of a woman who had been blinded by an eyelash cosmetic such as Copeland's bill seeks to bar. The Senate showed little interest in that phase of the matter.)

Don't, Don't, and Don't

Decorum still reigns unchallenged at the Library of Commerce, thanks to Martin A. Roberts, superintendent of the reading room.

While the staff was preparing the great Vollbehr collection of incunabula for exhibition and shelving, an employe spread open an ancient book at what seemed to him an excellent wood-carving and placed it in a showcase.

Roberts promptly insisted the display was immoral and had the page turned. For the wood-carving portrayed the devil chasing a monk!

When Dr. Otto H. Vollbehr himself came in an started to pass a box of liqueur chocolates among the boys and girls, Roberts told him he mustn't. Visitors to the library might smell alcohol on everybody's breath.

No Smoking Here

Nathan R. Margold, solicitor for the Department of the Interior and a power over the oil industry, is the only New Dealer yet encountered who grimly refuses to let anyone smoke in his office.

Margold is a former instructor at Harvard Law School and a protege of Prof. Felix Frankfurter.

Memorial Plans are Made at White Hall

White Hall, May 24.—Plans are completed for observing Memorial Day in White Hall. On Sunday morning, Rev. Alfred E. Linfield, pastor of the White Hall Methodist church, will deliver a Memorial sermon in the Methodist church in union services.

Committees from the American Legion, the Auxiliary, and the C. C. club, under the direction of Legion Post Commander Joseph Lyman, are in charge of the ceremonies. Captain Dean Corsa and Francis Piper represent the Legion; Mrs. Francis Piper and Mrs. George Drew, the Auxiliary; Stanley Thomas and Oren Raines, the C. C. club. The Legion will decorate the soldiers graves in both White Hall cemeteries a few days in advance; the Auxiliary ladies will decorate the graves with flowers on Memorial day morning, and a program will be given in Whiteside park at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. L. E. Sarke, superintendent of the White Hall schools will be the chairman.

The program will be:

Invocation—Rev. A. E. Linfield.
Music—White Hall School band.
Song—Roodhouse Brothers quartet.
Historical Sketch of White Hall G. A. R.—Stanley Thomas.
Song—Roodhouse Brothers.
Address—C. P. McClelland, president of MacMurray College, Jacksonville.
White Hall school band.
Benediction—Rev. J. F. Breen.
Taps—Kendall Seely.

August B. Smith and John F. Cole are the only veterans of the Civil war now residing in White Hall, though G. R. Adams of Danville and A. A. Lorton of Murrayville, still claim White Hall as their residence.

Social Notes

Mrs. J. C. Spencer and four high school teachers, Misses Marjorie Florence, Eleanor Stoldt, Hannah Hollenbeak and Isabel Rinaker, entertained at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Ruth Moon, high school teacher, who is soon to wed Edwin Lowenstein, Monday evening. A color scheme of green and white using mock orange and white roses was carried out in a pretty novel manner as a garden scene using tiny skrinkling pots and an umbrella in the plan. There were three tables at bridge and the guests beside the guest of honor and hostesses were: Mrs. L. E. Starke, Mrs. A. R. Jarman, Mrs. Dean Corsa, Mrs. Mark Lowenstein, Miss Kathryn Calans and Miss Norma Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson of Chicago spent Saturday and Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thompson on West Bridgeport street, and a family dinner party was given in their honor, Saturday evening. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McConathy and family of White Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. William Allen of Roodhouse. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thompson are expecting another son, Smith, to come from Los Angeles, California, the first of June for a visit. It will be David's first visit home in ten years. His wife and son will probably remain for an extended visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith in Roodhouse.

Keep Cool and Peppy All Summer Long While Losing Fat The Safe Way—The Right Way

Out of the thousands of letters received we give you this one from a grateful young man.

"I am 28 yrs. old. I weighed 210 lbs. about one year ago when I started to take Kruschen Salts off and on for nine months. I lost weight alright so I began to take it regular for the last 3 months. I now weigh 145. I feel better, look better and I am O.K. in every way. I also eat anything I want." Mr. J. C. Record, Miami, Fla.

While losing unsightly fat with Kruschen you gain in health for Kruschen acts on liver, kidneys, bowels and helps keep body free from poisons and acid.

Keep cool and full of pep this summer by taking one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning. Get it at any druggist.

WILL ROGERS Says:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:

Beverly Hills, Calif., May 24—Not long ago ex-ambassador to Germany, Jimmie Gerard, said there was fifty men running the country. Now they say they have let 49 of 'em go. So naturally we have those 49 ex-country runners, all on our hands and dissatisfied. You can't let people out, no matter for what good reason, and have them go away bragging on you. I don't suppose there is any business with as many unemployed as the "advising" business. What gets these big fellows goat is, Roosevelt listens to 'em all, but they can't tell whether he is paying any attention or not. Yours, WILL.

Rain Settles Dust on Roads of County

Showers in this section Thursday did little toward settling the dust on unoiled dirt roads. However, it did not rain enough to make the roads muddy according to the weekly report of the local Auto club.

Construction has begun on Route 104 between its junction with U. S. 36 and a point a mile east of Pisgah. Work is also proceeding on the bridge across the creek at Appalonia between Franklin and Waverly, and that portion of the route will also be under construction soon

Most of the oiled roads are in fair to good condition.

The automobile races at Indianapolis will be held as usual on Memorial Day, May 30th. The route between Jacksonville and Indianapolis is all paved and the distance is 230 miles.

Denver, Colorado, is 945 miles via US-36 to Pittsfield, Ill.; US-54 to Kingdom City, Mo.; US-40 to Manhattan, Kas.; US-40-S to Limon, Colorado and US-40 into Denver. Approximately 80 per cent of this route is pavement and the rest is gravel. A 28-mile sand-gravel detour is in effect between Manhattan and Junction City, Kas. Estes Park(Ricky Mountain National Park) is 74 miles northwest of Denver via a partly paved and partly graveled road.

Yellowstone Park is approximately 1,500 miles from Jacksonville via Beardstown, Keokuk, Omaha, Cheyenne, Casper and thence into the park via the Cody entrance. Most of this road is highly improved and in very good condition. The large hotels are to be opend on June 16th, but it is possbile to secure accommodations at some of the lodges now.

Turkey Run State Park is 185 miles via US-36 to Rockville, Indiana, and US-41 to the junction of Ind-47; and thence on 47 to the park. All paved and a very fast road with no heavy traffic.

Select Grand Jury Which Will Report For Duty June 14

The county board of commissioners Thursday drew the names of 23 citizens to serve on the special grand jury called for June 14.

Members of the grand jury will be Leo Lockhart, Alexander; Jay Cooper, Chapin; John Votsmeier and J. B. Wright, Franklin; Dwight Green, Literberry; Harry Coultas, Lynnville; Wilford Rice, Meredosia; Frank Devine, Murrayville; Oral Reese, Nortonville; Henry Leadill, Pisgah; Walter Houston, Prentice; Loy Tosh and Otha Rouland, Waverly; Paul Haire, Woodson; Clyde Hart, L. C. Hicks, J. Frank Carson, William Douglass M. W. Spainhower, W. E. Marine, Frank Bubb, John R. Scott and Sam Challiner, all of Jacksonville.

The special grand jury was ordered by Judge Victor Hemphill on petition of State's Attorney W. H. Absher. Nine cases of alleged theft will be investigated by the jurors, the defendants already being held in jail or at liberty under bonds.

Ashland was represented in Jacksonville yesterday by Hardin and Elfred Lamkular.

Giving Darrow and His Report Support

The report of Clarence Darrow's National Recovery Review Board may have displeased NRA officials, but to Senator Gerald Nye's way of thinking it bore out charges of monopoly under the Blue Eagle. The Senator (left), whose complaints of the NRA trends brought the Darrow board into being, is here shown discussing the report with Darrow.

Announce Awards to Exhibitors at Garden Club Show

Many lovely exhibits including bouquets and basket displays of flowers and garden furniture were viewed Wednesday and Thursday in the beautiful garden of Mrs. Courtney Crouch Wright, 117 Finley street.

Brilliant groupings of artistic bouquets showed the iris, peonies, columbine and gorgeous combinations of flowers on competitive exhibits in the tent which housed this display. In the garden attractively arranged on terraces in separate displays, admist the growing shrubs and peonies were the beautiful set tables featuring those arranged for out door picnic and refreshments.

A "Leisure Tray" arranged by Mrs. Garm Norbury, assisted by Mr. Auld, was attractive on a small green table, set in orange and green "Hob-nail glass plates with colorful bouquet. This was placed near a pure white hammock (woven at the School for the Blind) and created much favorable comment. The bridge table set in blue and white; the woven cloth, woven by Miss Anna Dewey Doane was arranged by Mrs. Parker Doane and was charming in effect.

Mrs. Courtney Crouch Wright displayed a lovely orange and green refreshment set with green trays, which was especially attractive. Mrs. John R. Robertson had for her artistic design a wicker tray set with Majolica ware of green and lavendar, arranged on a wicker table under the pergola covered with wisteria. Two large wicker chairs added to this setting. Also a colorful beer table, arranged by Mrs. Auld, was very attractive.

Mrs. C. A. Johnson displayed a buffet supper table set in pastel shades on separate trays with antique glass and china. This was beautiful in arrangement.

On the children's terrace, which was devoted to children's outdoor activities were bright colored swings, small chairs with attractive arrangement of sand pile and refreshment table with appointments complete making a delightful scene, loaned and arranged by Dixie Arnold and Mrs. Myer.

The awards for exhibits were as follows:

Banish Body Odor This New Odorless Way

Leaves No M. S. (Medicine Smell)

It isn't the smell of a soap that gets you clean—it's the lather.

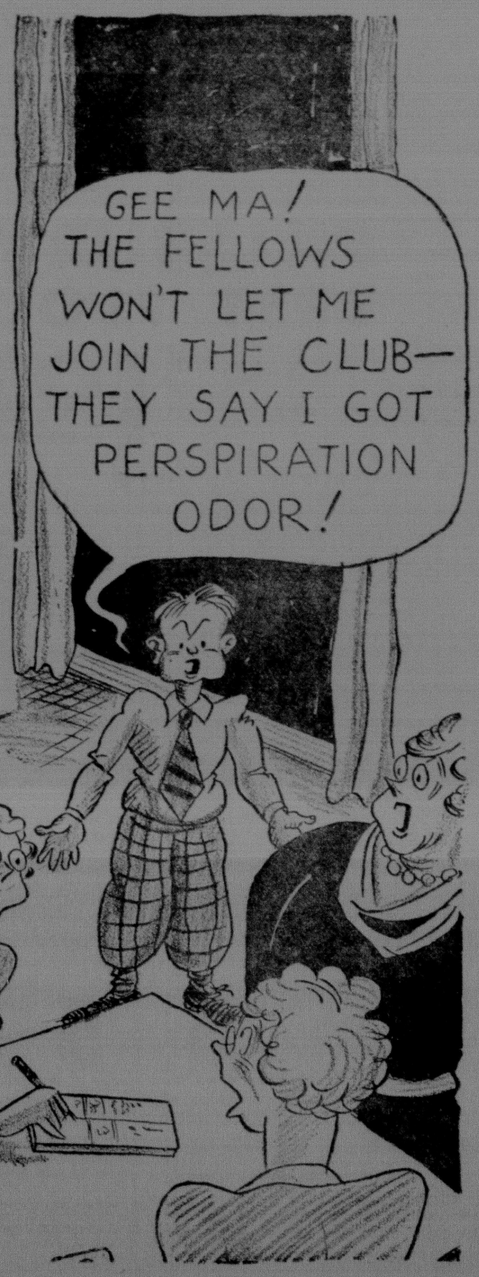

Ordinary toilet soaps don't lather freely enough in this hard water. They form a sticky soap-scum . . . and this soap-scum works into the pores and dams up stale perspiration.

Strong-smelling soaps—no matter how much they lather—can't keep a secret.

Kirk's Castile, being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, lathers abundantly, even in hard, cold water. It goes deep into the pores, mixes with the stale perspiration curds and sets them free. In a twinkling your body is as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze!

"Lathers Instantly in This Hard Water" —says citizen of Belvidere, Illinois, where water is hardest in the state.

Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. It's odorless. And half again larger than average toilet soaps—an exceptional bargain. Be sure to ask for Kirk's by name.

SHORTAGE OF HOUSES REVEALED IN SURVEY MADE BY GOVERNMENT

Washington, May 24.—(AP)—The fact that 20 per cent of the nation's families are living under crowded conditions—pointing to a "serious housing shortage"—was disclosed today by a private governmental study.

This and other facts on American housing, revealed by the department of commerce real property inventory, were characterized as "striking commentary on what we are pleased to call our standard of living."

More than 60 per cent of all dwellings in the country were shown to be in need of repairs, and 282 per cent were listed as "unfit to live in."

The report was based on statistics from 20 cities, but government experts said it was indicative of the pattern for the entire nation.

A preliminary to a full report of 100 cities, the compliation was made for the information of the administration, in connection with the housing bill now before congress.

Hearings on the measure continued today, following a prediction by Frank C. Walker, chairman of the president's national emergency council, that the bill will be passed during this session.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends whose expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness comforted us in our sorrow.

CENTERVILLE

Centerville, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Jayan Long entertained a group of about sixty neighbors and friends last Sunday in honor of the eighteenth birthday anniversary of their daughter, Mary. A basket dinner served cafeteria style was enjoyed at noon and the afternoon was pleasantly spent in a social way.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miner, baby Wayne, son Elmer, and Mrs. Heye Martin were Jacksonville shoppers on Friday.

Misses Mary and Ruby Farmer accompanied by their sisters, Nellie Faye and Mildred, and brother, Gene, took a truck load of sight-seers to the iris fields at Carlinville Sunday. A picnic dinner was an enjoyable feature as well as the beauty of the flowers and the trip. There were twenty-six included in the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dodson moved to Waverly on Tuesday to the Mrs. Mary Cook property.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Challans and children and Mrs. Glen Johnson were Jacksonville shoppers Friday.

John Walter Langley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Langley, narrowly escaped a tragic death last Thursday when he fell in front of the disk on which he was riding while working down corn ground which his father was planting. His father carried him to Arthur Rouland's, a neighbor nearby, where they were working, and they rushed him in Mr. Rouland's car to a hospital in Jacksonville where he received medical attention and remained until Friday before they brought him home. A gash was cut to the bone in the calf of one leg and while he has suffered intensely there is hopes that no more serious development will result and it was most fortunate he was not killed outright and gentle horses was undoubtedly a weight in the child's favor.

Plans are being made for a Children's Day program at New Hope church to be held the second Sunday in June.

Mrs. Bill Rouland was in Waverly Saturday attending at the bedside of her uncle, Henry Sperry, who is critically ill with a complication of diseases.

Edna Martin, Clarence Miner, Albert Rynders and Aubrey Crum, have all received their diplomas, having all made passing grades in the final examinations. They are Harmony Dist. No. 3, pupils and their teacher was Mrs. Blanche G. Dodson. Kathryn Denny and Delbert DeLong also received their diploma—they are from Gourdneck school and Raymond Crum was their teacher. Both teachers are to be commended inasmuch as all their pupils taking the examination passed.

fr's so convenient to keep a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal.—Use it also as a healthful ingredient in your cooking. For muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

ALL-BRAN brings your family the "bulk" that is so helpful in correcting common constipation.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. In severe cases, with each meal. How much better than risking patent medicines!

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

Special processes of cooking and flavoring make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable than ordinary raw bran.

And because it is all bran—with only flavoring added—it brings you more "bulk" than part-bran products.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Tex Carleton Pitches Fine Ball in Pinches and Cards Take Game From Dodgers

Brooklyn, May 24.—(AP)—Tex Carleton, St. Louis right hander, had too much stuff for Brooklyn in the pinches today and the Cardinals chalked up a 7 to 3 victory which sent them into second place a few percentage points ahead of Chicago.

The Cards rapped out 13 blows, most of them when they counted, and got the benefit of a couple of Dodger misplays. The two runs which "iced" the game crossed the plate when Benny Frey and Len Koenecke collided going after Buster Mills' fly which should have been the third out in the third out in the seventh. The pinch blow went for a double.

PIRATES BATTER BRAVES 7 TO 3

Boston, May 24.—(AP)—After 19-year-old Harry Lavagetto put the Pittsburgh Pirates in the lead with a seventh inning homer, they fell on "Lefty" Ed Brandt with a vengeance today to defeat the Boston Braves, 7-3, and even the series.

Brandt had held the Pirates to five hits until Lavagetto belted one into the left field stands to put them ahead, 3-2. They made four more runs in the eighth on two singles, "Pie" Traynor's double, Bill Swift's drive, which was caught in the screen protecting the right field stands and went for a three-bagger under the ground rules, and a long fly.

Every Pirate except Fred Lindstrom managed to connect at least once against Brandt. Lindstrom, however, played only six innings, for he was forced to retire with an injured finger, suffered when he tried to stop Marty MacManus' vicious drive to left field. It was feared the digit was fractured.

PHILS SHUTOUT REDLEGS 5 TO 0

Philadelphia, May 24.—(AP)—Brilliant pitching by Curt Davis coupled with timely hitting by his mates enabled the Phillies to win their first shutout of the season today—a 5 to 0 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. In turning in the victory, Davis allowed the Reds only three hits and struck out six men, while the Phillies found the range of Si Johnson's delivery in the fifth, sixth and seventh to score four tallies.

One of the runs was a homer over the right field fence by Johnny Moore, his first since coming to the Phils.

LYNNVILLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH FIELD DAY, 30TH

The annual field day of Lynnville Christian church will be held May 30 at the farm of Wilbur Gibbs. A basket dinner will be served at noon. The morning will be spent in playing games, and in the afternoon there will be a ball game and other amusements.

Woodson shoppers in the city yesterday included Miss Alberta Seymour.

HUBBELL PITCHES, GIANTS BEAT CUBS

New York, May 24.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell, the Giants' left handed hurling ace, made a fine recovery from his recent setback at the hands of the Cardinals and subdued the Chicago Cubs today to give the New York club a 7 to 1 victory.

The defeat, second straight for Chicago in the series, dropped the Cubs to third place a few points behind St. Louis and a half game ahead of the Giants.

Hubbell allowed only four hits, all singles and spread over four innings. He might have had a shutout but for George Watkins' error in the sixth. After Woody English walked, Watkins fumbled Augie Galan's single and English reached third, scoring a moment later after Kiki Cuyler's liner.

The Giants, meanwhile, hit hard and often against a bulky pair of elbowers, Bud Tinning and Jim Weaver, collecting 12 blows, including a homer by Gus Mancuso in the fourth.

YANKS NOSEOUT WHITE SOX 2 TO 1

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, with their infield thoroughly revamped, broke their four-game losing streak by the thinnest of margins today when they eked out a 2 to 1 victory over the White Sox and evened the series.

For seven innings Milton Gaston shut them out with two lonely hits in a keenly contested duel with Vernon (Lefty) Gomez. Then in the eighth Sammy Byrd, who replaced Babe Ruth in left field after the Bambino hurt his back chasing Jimmy Dykes' triple which knocked in the Chicago run in the fifth, broke the ice with a single. Lou Gehrig followed with a double and Ben Chapman duplicated the blow to drive in both Yankee tallies.

Gomez pitched three-hit ball to gain his seventh victory of an undefeated season despite an injury suffered in the eighth when Stanley Bordagary, Chicago pinch hitter, slashed a single off his pitching hand. That caused him to falter long enough to hand out two walks but he escaped trouble.

Steal Bases From Any Place On Field While Zaber Fans 14 Men; Woods Leads Hitting

Illinois College's Blueboys, in second place in the Little 19 conference, didn't let up for a minute of a three hour game yesterday afternoon on their home diamond, stealing bases, making the Western Teachers throw the ball around a lot, and profiting to the extent of a 21 to 7 victory over the Leathernecks, who held the Blueboys to four runs not long ago. Henry "Zack" Zaber, who has been pitching better baseball this year than he has since his freshman year, turned up with 14 strike-outs to discourage much Western scoring, holding them hitless for five innings while his mates piled up a lead.

It is nothing for the Blueboys to work one delayed steal to score a run during a game, but yesterday they took advantage of the Leatherneck willingness to throw the ball to use this favorite stunt to score four times, working it twice in one inning. Illinois marked up a total of nine stolen bases, not counting several that Blueboy runners took without a play being made.

Western's mound ace, Russell Page, found the Blueboys in a scoring mood during the first two innings, and he retired in favor of Aleshire, a six foot five inch boy who stuck around for two innings before departing in favor of Markham. The latter hurler didn't do so well, but the game had been marked up on the won side of the book by the local collegians at that stage of the game, and he stayed until the bitter end.

Woods Bats 1.000

Kenneth "Dopey" Woods, going into last two games of his collegiate career, marked up a record that is good enough to write a few lines about. He went to the plate officially four times, rapped out four hits, two of them clean homers, and scored five runs. Woods revived the flagging Blueboy spirits in the first inning after Western had taken a two run lead to open the game, shooting a single between second and third, going to second when the left fielder missed the catch and taking the last two bases while the Western players were trying to get hold of the ball as it rolled around the infield. He walked his second time up and scored, hit home runs his third and fourth times to the plate, got hit by a pitched ball his fifth time up, and rapped an infield single his sixth trip. Added to all this hitting and scoring, Dopey stole three bases, and pulled down a long fly in centerfield, his only chance defensively all afternoon.

Tony Pacotti didn't do so badly for his batting average either. Pacotti got three out of five, two of them doubles, stole four bases, and featured his afternoon performance by stealing home twice, once on a delayed steal and once when Aleshire forgot himself and wound up for a pitch with Pacotti on third.

After the first inning, Zaber worked smoothly until the seventh and eighth innings, but when the ninth came along, and the suppers growing cold on the table, Zaber struck out two men in a row and then tossed out the third man to end the game. Western's two runs in the first inning were the result of Page's single, followed by Reynold's double. Reynolds went to third on a passed ball, and scored when Reay played Higgs' roller to second for a force out just a split second too late to catch the third out.

Teachers Go Hitless

Western didn't get a hit from the first to the sixth when Higgs scratched an infield single, and then got two in the seventh to score three runs. Logan took a third strike at a ball which buried in the dust, and went to first when Pacotti got lost in the dirt storm around the plate. Markham singled to get on, and two men went out in a row before Reynolds punched out a single to right, scoring one run. Payne was safe on a fielder's choice which was too late to catch Reynolds, filling the bases. Kraushaar walked to force in a run, and Higgs was safe on Reay's error, another run scoring. Doyle struck out to end the inning.

Three successive singles in the eighth, along with an infield out, gave Western two runs, Illinois playing safe with their long lead and cutting off runners at the initial corner to keep out of trouble.

Pacotti's double in the first, with Colin on first, brought Illinois the tying run after Woods had touched all of the corners on his single. Payne walked Woods, Taylor got on through Page's error, and Winn singled to send Woods home. Colin singled to score Taylor, and Pacotti's double wiped the bags clean, and sent Page to first base for the remainder of the game, Aleshire coming in. Pacotti went to third on an infield out, and stole home with the fifth run of the frame while Aleshire was winding up for a pitch to Zaber.

Woods' home run started off the fourth inning, Taylor doubling and Winn doubling. Winn scoring on a delayed steal, with Colin doing the act between first and second. Woods got another home run in the fifth with Watts on base. Aleshire walked Taylor and Winn before he was signalled out of the box in favor of Markham. Taylor scored when Kraushaar dropped a throw to catch him, and Markham walked Colin. Pacotti hit into a force play which caught Colin, and set the stage for another delayed steal. Winn again scrambling across the plate while Pacotti took second base. Reay walked after Pacotti had ambled to third, and again the delayed steal was yanked out of the bag. Pacotti scoring while Reay entertained the boys with some antics between first and second. Illinois led at this stage 15-2.

Illinois got three more in the seventh, and three more in the eighth, on a total of three hits for the two innings as they took advantage of Western's misplays.

The Blueboys will wind up their Little 19 season next Wednesday with State Normal here.

Out with Sludge
THE OIL-EATER

SLUDGE REVEALED AS ONE OF GREATEST CAUSES OF HIGHER OIL CONSUMPTION

NEW MOTOR OIL STOPS SLUDGE FORMATION—HOLDS DOWN YOUR OIL COST

● You know sludge—that thick, tar-like mass that comes out of your crankcase at the end of the drain. It forms when motor oil breaks down in the heat of hard driving. It clogs oil lines, makes filters inefficient, turns valves into sluggish power-wasters.

But here is the most important thing about sludge—tests prove it to be one of the greatest causes of high motor oil consumption. For sludge collects on piston rings, makes them stick, and once rings are clogged and stuck the engine begins pumping oil.

SLUDGE IS ONE OF THE GREATEST CAUSES OF HIGH OIL CONSUMPTION. That is why users of Iso-Vis "D", Standard's new anti-sludge motor oil, are able to hold down their oil costs. Iso-Vis "D" keeps sludge formation to a minimum—keeps rings free and lively. It even helps remove sludge formed by previous oils.

This summer keep sludge out of your engine. Use anti-sludge Iso-Vis "D". You'll find it a long-lasting oil that gives you perfect lubrication even in the hardest, hottest kind of driving. It will save you good money in the long run.

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENS WHEN SLUDGE FORMS IN YOUR ENGINE

It doesn't take much sludge to do the harm. For example, we got only about a pint from one motor. But look at the next picture.

Sludge had collected on the rings preventing proper oil control. When rings are sluggish or stuck they begin pumping oil and consumption becomes excessive.

The chart above shows how oil consumption goes up when sludge sticks rings. Keep out sludge with Iso-Vis "D" and keep oil consumption to a minimum.

BEGIN QUALIFYING TODAY FOR LITTLE 19 COLLEGE MEET

Van Meter to Leave Here This Morning With Four Men—Moore Definitely Out of Two Mile Race.

Monmouth, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Field and track stars of the Little Nineteen, over 300 strong, open their drive for the conference championship tomorrow with prospects of a toss-up battle for team honors.

North Central, State Normal, Illinois College, Knox, Carthage and Carbondale Teachers all appeared to have a good chance of crashing through for the team championship in the two-day struggle.

North Central, indoor champion, looks to Lloyd Siebert, freshman vaulter and hurdler; Vince Godfrey, high hurdler; Norm Qauntock, 440; Charles Culver, 880; John Deiber, sprinter, and Norbert Miller, high jumper. Normal's stars are Lyle Hutton, 880 and mile; Bill Bremer, two mile; Deacon Gorens, sprinter; Wilbur Barton, hurdler, and Maurice Carr, vaulter.

Carbondale's strength is in the field. Harry Bauder, discus and shot, and Hippo Brown, javelin, pace the southerners. Crips, Parendis and Devor, hurdlers, are expected to pick up points. Illinois College has George Baker, ranking sprinter of the conference; Paul Sweeney, pole vaulter; George Moore, two miler, and Jim Winn, broad jumper.

Carthage relies on Robert Romeis, pole vaulter; Keith Steward, 440; Vincent Leatherby, miler, and John Silek, broad jumper.

Knox's best men are John Lewis and Tom Kelly, vaulter, and George Bowman, high jumper and hurdler.

Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter will leave here this morning with four athletes for the qualifying round of the Little 19 state college championship meet. George Moore, two miler, who was virtually assured of second place and four points in the two mile run, is definitely out of the meet, Mr. Van Meter said yesterday.

George Baker, the outstanding dash man in the conference, Clarendon Smith, quarter miler, Edward Merck, half miler, and Wallie Meyer, hurdler, will accompany the coach. Qualifying trials will be held in these events this afternoon.

Although Illinois has hopes of winning the championship, the absence of Moore will deprive the team of the four points which it will need, according to Coach Van Meter. Paul Swency, pole vaulter, has hopes of going 13 feet at this year's meet. Sweeney has a quarter interest in the record at present.

NOTRE DAME WINS

South Bend, Ind., May 24.—(AP)—Notre Dame pounded three Purdue hurlers for 13 hits today to rout the Boilermakers, 13 to 5, for their fourth straight victory. The Irish blasted Elrod off the mound with a five run attack in the sixth and chased his successor, Humel, to the showers with another four-run splurge in the eighth.

Cunha and Fromhart led the Irish attack with three hits each.

JOCKEYS BATTLE FOR RACE HONORS

New York, May 24.—(AP)—The battle for riding honors on the American turf tightened today when Eddie Litzenberger, brilliant little jockey from Calgary, Canada, rode his 99th winner of the year to go into a tie for first place with Earl Porter of Geneva, Ill.

Litzenberger, who lost his apprentice allowance yesterday, one year after he rode his first winner, brought Samuel Riddle's Red Jog home first in the fourth race at Belmont Park for his first victory as a full-fledged jockey. It was the first triumph for the three-year old filly and she paid 6 to 1.

The honor of riding the Arden Farms' Quel Jeu, winner of the featured Hollis claiming stake, went to Tommy Malley, however. The four-year old son of High Time broke slowly, ran a zigzag course and still was good enough to finish the six furlongs four lengths in front of Miss Merriment. A head back in the show position was Glendye.

Quel Jeu was quoted at 7 to 2 to win the purse of $2,055. She ran the distance in the fast time of 1:11 4-5.

Mrs. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Dark Conquest won his fourth straight race, his second in a row over the fairgrounds course, in accounting for the mile and one-sixteenth claiming feature at the Detroit track.

The four-year old gelding closed fast to beat J. A. Nix's even up by a head. J. W. Walter's Sandwrack was third.

Despite his consistent record, Dark Conquest paid the good odds of $9.80 for $2. He ran the distance in 1:46 3-5 under 113 pounds.

TIDE OF BATTLE IS TURNING TO BOLIVIA IN GRAN CHACO WAR

La Pax, Bolivia, May 24—(AP)—The tide of batlle has turned toward Bolivia in two sectors of the Gran Chaco, the war office claimed today.

A statement asserted Paraguayan forces were in full flight through the dense forests in the "Canada" and "Strongest" sectors, where battle began on May 19.

Bolivians claim to have captured 412 prisoners, including several officers, and to have taken over a large quantity of war equipment including 21 trucks loaded with rifles and ammunition.

Sirens echoed in the capital and newspapers made much of the alleged victory in special editions. The war office described the victory as of transcendental importance in the Chaco campaign.

Paraguyan military officials at Asuncion described engagements in the "Canada" and "Strongest" sectors of the Chaco as Bolivian efforts to provoke the Paraguayan army into launching prematurely the impending attack on Fort Ballivian, Major Bolivian Stronghold. A war office statement claimed many Bolivians had been captured.

BLUEBOY NETMEN DEFEAT WESTERN TEACHERS 5 TO 1

Illinois College net men turned in their second win this week yesterday, defeating Western Normal tennis players 5 matches to one. Illinois will play Millikin here today, and will go to McKendree to wind up the season.

Wells, Macomb's number one player, was the only Western player to ring up a victory, defeating Jack Moriarty, Illinois champion, 3-6, 3-6. Kenneth Chenoweth defeated Macomb's number two player 6-3, 60; Mitchell, Illinois, defeated Means, Western, 6-4, 6-1, and Clark, Illinois, turned back Yengst 6-4, 6-4 to clinch the match.

Both Illinois doubles teams won from their Western opponents, Moriarty and Chenoweth winning 6-8, 6-3, 6-3 from Murphy and Wells, and Mitchell and Clark winning from Means and Yengst, 6-2, 6-3.

Chenoweth's victory over Murphy was particularly sweet, the Macomb player having defeated Chenoweth three times this year.

The Clothiers holding first place by ousting Bluffs from the undefeated class by a one run margin in an extra inning game. The Clothiers will come to Jacksonville this Sunday for the second half of a gala Booster Day double header.

Bluffs decided last week to withdraw from the league, and then reversed their decision just in time to get a team from Beardstown to take them on. Manager Gus Campbell sent a number of his regulars from his Mac's Clothiers team to Bluffs for the game, and picked up a number of players out of the Beardstown twilight league to turn back the Italian-Americans of Springfield at Beardstown. That feat indicates the strength of the Beardstown club, which promises to be the hardest team in the loop to stop.

Internal troubles continue to harass the league. Alsey and Manchester are demanding that Winchester release Priest and Hoots, two players who hail from Alsey but who have been playing on the Winchester team. They also have laid claims on Francis Hudson and Coumbes, a battery from the Jacksonville Indees. Whether these claims will be allowed remains to be seen.

Ed Lawless turned in a creditable pitching performance last Sunday for the Morgan Indees. Lawless had a try-out with the Chicago White Sox this year, and opposed Cumby, Winchester hurler and manager, who took a few days off to try-out with the St. Louis Cardinals. Jimmy McCormick turned in a neat pitching performance at Roodhouse last Sunday for the Jacksonville Indees, but the breaks went against him, and he lost a tough game.

Just who Manager Campbell will select to do the flinging against the Jacksonville Indees here this Sunday remains to be seen, but he can call upon either Mike Meyers, who tried out with the Cardinals last year, or Traut, who was given a chance with the Peoria Club in the Central League this year. Traut is back with the Clothiers and ready to do some real flinging.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Jerseyville Plans Memorial Program

Jerseyville, May 24.—Attorney William P. Boynton of Alton, a former resident of Jerseyville, has been obtained to deliver the Memorial Day address at the annual exercises which will be held at the court house in Jerseyville next Wednesday afternoon, May 30th, commencing at 2 o'clock.

Following the program at the court house, a service will be held in Oak Grove cemetery where the rites of the afternoon will be concluded. The program will be as follows: Call to order, H. E. Dabbs, post commander, Worthy Post, American Legion; Star Spangled Banner, assembly, led by Mrs. Warren Gray; Invocation, William F. Hanley, county Legion commander; Lincoln's Gettysburg address; J. M. Page, past post commander, Lowe Post Grand Army of the Republic; Reading, Mrs. William Stephenson, representative Woman's Relief Corps; Logan's General Order Number 11; Fred D. Jacobs; Address, Attorney William B. Boynton of Alton; Benediction, Rev. W. L. Hanbaum.

At Oak Grove cemetery the following program will be given: Burial service of G. A. R., and American Legion, Flag Salute, led by Woman's Relief Corps, Pledge of Allegiance by Boy Scouts, firing salute to the dead, taps, Bugler C. Robert Wilkinson.

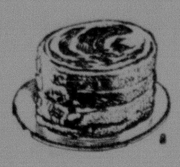

The order of march from the court house to the cemetery will be as follows: Colors, band, firing squad from Marquette State Park, veterans of all wars; Boy Scouts, Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, American Legion Auxiliary.

Service for G. A. R.

The annual union memorial services for the surviving members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held at the Methodist church in Jerseyville Sunday morning, May 27th, at ten forty-five o'clock.

The members of patriotic organizations will meet at the court house preceding the services, and will march to the church where a place will be reserved for them. At present there are only six living members of the Grand Army in Jersey county, and they are Patrick Lynch, William Sunderland, W. H. Cooke, Emanuel Dabbs, William Shanz and Joseph M. Page.

The Memorial address will be delivered by Rev. W. A. Steinkraus, pastor of the Jerseyville Baptist church, who has selected for his topic, "Life Through Death." Rev. W. L. Hanbaum will preside at the services, the order of which will be as follows: Voluntary call to worship; Invocation, Hymn, The Apostle's Creed, Prayer, Rev. H. S. Farrill, Anthem, Psalter, Gloria Patri, Offering, Hymn, Sermon, Rev. W. A. Steinkraus; Hymn, Benediction, Rev. Leonard Todd; Doxology.

Fire Hose Hurls Back Buffalo Plane Plant Rioters

Fire hose, tear gas bombs, and night sticks routed rioters at the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the Curtiss Airplane Company, when 300 strikers and their sympathizers attacked nonunion workers. This picture shows police and deputies halting a striker who had attempted to swing the fire hose into the policemen's ranks. Four were arrested and four injured in the clash.

Blind Girls Pass Life Saving Tests

Girl students at the Illinois School for the Blind have been very busy during the past few weeks taking Red Cross life saving tests under the efficient instruction of Miss Edith R. Gillogly. Misses Vandeline Senz and Vera Westlake have both successfully passed the dificult Junior and Senior Red Cross life saving tests under the direction of Miss Katherine Kamm, a Red Cross life saving examiner for the local chapter. Junior certificates and insignia will be issued to these young ladies from National headquarters, and a recognition from the director of the national Red Cross life saving service will be sent to these girls because they completed their senior tests.

Following is a list of the names of the girls who have recently completed their beginners tests in Red Cross life saving: Bernice Benova, Hallie Jean Boyd, Mary Katherine Budd, Monzella Christen, Norah Curtis, Jean Curtis, Laura Flannigan, Alphonsine Fleming, Pearl Gentile, Pauline Ghode, Jennie Guastello, Margaret Holman, Wanda Idleman, Carol Mae Mesman, Coleen McKavitt, Catherine Peskor, Rose Stroznick.

Beginners and swimmers Red Cross buttons have been issued to these students from national headquarters.

Shiloh Church to Hold Homecoming

Shiloh M. E. church one of the oldest churches in Morgan county, will hold its annual homecoming next Sunday, May 27. Shiloh church was organizer on 1830 and has been served by regular pastors continuously 104 years.

The homecoming will begin with a song service at 10:30 a. m., with an addres by the pastor, "The Country Church." At 2 o'clock Rev. T. B. Lugg, superintendent of the Jacksonville M. E. district, will deliver a sermon.

There will be a basket dinner at noon. All members, friends and neighbors are cordially invited to attend the homecoming.

Congressman Is Jailed in Riot

Again afoul of the law, Representative F. H. Shumaker, Minnesota farmer-laborite, is shown in Minneapolis jail, after his arrest during a riot of striking truck drivers. Shumaker, charged with resisting arrest, declared he had taken a broom handle he was carrying away from a striker, to "prevent trouble."

HOLDUP AT GAS STATION

Victims Lured by Bargain Price

Low Gravity Gas Robs You of Money Steals Performance from Your Motor

This holdup is the unseen drama which may take place every time a motorist buys gas at a cut-price pump.

Some day, of course, he will know better! Like millions of experienced drivers, he will learn the money-saving benefits of Phillips 66 . . . the honest high test gasoline which sells at the price of regular.

You know what a difference high test makes in a motor. But do you know that Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline? Do you realize that only Phillips consistently publishes its gravity (or high test) figures?

Month by month, we show how this gravity range changes as we match Phillips 66 to the variations in your weather. Thus the Phillips process of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY protects and insures finer performance.

You get more power and more miles. Better miles, too. Smoother, swifter, quieter. And your engine is so responsive and flexible that there is added pleasure in motoring.

But five gallons tell more than five thousand words. Hence we make this worth while suggestion: Before you buy your next tankful of gas at just any station which you happen to pass, look for the Orange and Black 66 shield. That's the place to Phill-up with Phillips.

Pasteurization Does Not Affect the Nourishing Quality and Good Taste of Milk and Cream

Nathan Straus, former president Department of Health, New York City says: "The advantages of pasteurization consist of the proper degrees of heat applied, which is sufficient to kill all noxious germs, while the nourishing quality and good taste of the milk are retained."

Dr. Paul A. Turner, Director of Health of the state of Washington, says: "Pasteurization kills all of the germs without affecting the nourishing and digestive qualities of the milk."

The Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia says: "The subjection of milk to a temperature of about 140 degrees F. for one-half hour by means of which all the contained bacteria are destroyed, while the temperature is not high enough to alter the nutritive qualities of the fluid."

To Cure Hay Quickly— Handle It with the

McCORMICK-DEERING

Side Rake and Tedder

THIS two-in-one hay tool combines the best in a side delivery rake and a tedder. It forms a quick-curing windrow—turning the leaves inward to prevent shattering and the stems outward to get the quickest action from the sun and air.

The shift of a lever converts the McCormick-Deering from a side rake to a tedder. Another lever sets the teeth at the right slant for either operation.

Roller bearings assure light draft. The strong frame is well braced by a large truss beam over the reel. Gears are extra heavy. Teeth are securely fastened by special clips and bolts. We have this and other McCormick-Deering hay tools ready for delivery.

Ideals of Legion Set Forth Here by State Commander

The ideals of the American Legion were outlined by Charles C. Kapschull, department commander of the American Legion, at the Thursday meeting of the Jacksonville Kiwanis club.

Guests at the meeting included many members of the American Legion. They included Dr. Paul Hartley, Elmer Henderson, Fred Bailey, Grant L. Hughes, Frank L. Vannier, Kenneth Woods, Basil Sorrells, W. H. Absher, Roy E. Welch, W. T. Harmon, George Vasconcellos, Roy Hapke, Homer G. Bradney, Father Frank J. Lawler, Frank A. Robinson, Paul Knox, Charles R. Gibson, Harlan Williamson, all of this city; S. D. McKenney of Alton and W. H. Harper.

Commander Kauschull made particular mention of the significance of Memorial Day, and the part the American Legion plays in it. He said it was fitting that the Legion pays tribute to their dead through services at the graves of the veterans.

Speaking of the Legion program Mr. Kapschull said the Legion is trying to reach boys in the schools to teach them to be good citizens. This is being done through the organization of junior baseball teams, sponsoring of Boy Scout troops and the formation of Sons of the American Legion chapters.

The speaker deplored the action taken by student bodies in several universities, where young men have announced they would not serve their country at war under any consideration. The Legion wants peace, but peace with honor, he asserted. The Legion feels that its members have contributed to their country in a small way through their service in the war, and because of this feel that they have a right to fight such subservice-ness.

The prime objective of the American Legion, said the speaker, is to aid its disabled comrades. The Legion feels that it is necessary for its members to speak for their disabled comrades in organized form. The four point program recently adopted outlines the relief they expect.

The program calls for care of service connected cases; for hospitalization for those unable to pay for this care; for care of presumptive cases, who have been cut off by the government and for care for widows and orphans of veterans of the World War.

Mr. Kapschull said the Legion wants Jacksonville and every other community to be richer because of a veteran's post within its borders. The Legion wants to be a living monument to those who did not return.

Last night Commander Kapschull was the speaker at the May meeting of the Jacksonville Chow club. Mr. Kapschull spoke of the necessity of Legionnaires for taking active interest in veterans affairs.

Guests at the meeting included Milton Edge, Dr. Paul Hartley, Max Tschauder, Ralph Floreth, Rev. Glen Schillerstrom, Gene Curtis, Fred Wharton, John Clancy, F. W. Brockhouse, all of this city; Guy Bonney of Springfield and Joye Gleker, Thomas J. Lewis and Harold Ewing, all of Barry.

FOOD COSTS TOTAL A FIFTH OF RURAL FAMILY EXPENSES

Urbana, Ill., May 24.—Although farmers in this state produce 68 per cent of the food served on their tables, the grocery bill is still the largest item in the family's cash expenditures, according to a summary of 167 home account records made by Mrs. Ruth C. Freeman, home economics extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

During the past year the Illinois farm families covered in the summary made total cash expenditures ranging from $350 to $1,778, or an average of $679 each, points out Mrs. Freeman. Of this amount, $147, or 21.5 per cent, went for the purchase of food.

Cash operating expenses such as telephone, fuel, light and power, ice, servant hire, soap, matches and similar small supplies amounted to 15 per cent of all cash expenditures. Another 15 per cent, or approximately $101 for each family, was used in buying clothing.

Automobile charges accounted for the fourth largest item, involving 12 per cent of all cash expenditures, while recreation and education combined required 11 per cent, or an average of $77 for the average family during the year.

Under the item of shelter costs, the farm families entered 9.5 per cent of their cash expenditures. This included an average of $18 a year for cash repairs and fire insurance, and $45 for furnishings and equipment.

The physician, the dentist and the drug store claimed an average of $42 from each family under the heading of health expenses, thereby accounting for 6 per cent of the total cash expenditures. An equal amount was contributed to the church and in other gifts, while the remaining 4 per cent of all expenditures went for personal items of all members of the family.

HILLVIEW MAN IS CUT BY AXE WHILE WORKING ON LEVEE

White Hall, May 24.—Paul Garrison, son of Dr. H. W. Garrison, of Hillview, was seriously injured Tuesday while working on the levee west of Hillview. He was using an axe which slipped and cut his chin, cutting a sliver from the bone. His uncle, Dr. W. H. Garrison from White Hall was called to dress the wound.

The little two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McMillen of Hillview fell while playing Tuesday and broke her arm.

The one year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jackson dislocated her arm Monday.

Personal News

Mrs. Fleet Barnett and daughter left Tuesday night for Hendley, Nebraska, called there because of the serious illness of Mrs. Barnett's father, John Beatty. Mr. and Mrs. Beatty were preparing to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary the first of June. He has been suffering with heart trouble for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lewis took their little son, David Wayne, to St. Louis, Monday for treatment from a specialist who has been treating him for some time. The child is improving slowly.

Mrs. C. W. Barrow underwent a serious major operation in the White Hall hospital Monday.

Jack Hart, a junior in the White Hall high school, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Hart of Greenfield, underwent an appendix operation in the White Hall hospital Monday evening. He has been living with his grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Short and attending school here.

Mrs. Irvia Midyett of Pearl underwent a major operation in the White Hall hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Ella Graham was adjudged insane in county court in Carrollton, Saturday and taken directly to the State hospital in Jacksonville.

Mrs. C. A. Evans, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Dennis in Roodnouse since she suffered a stroke of paralysis, nearly two years ago, went into a coma Tuesday evening while sitting in a car up town in Roodhouse, and is critically ill at the Dennis home. Her son, Rev. Harry Evans of Easton and her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Wilson, are at her bedside, also her husband, who is employed in the People's First National Bank as watchman.

VOCATIONAL EXHIBIT OPEN TO PUBLIC AT SCHOOL FOR BLIND

An interesting exhibit of vocational work done by students at the Illinois School for the Blind was on display at the school Thursday afternoon and evening. The public is cordially invited to see this display which contains many samples of excellent handicraft.

The exhibit consists of various types of brushes, baskets, fibre furniture, sewing, knitting, hooked rugs, handwoven rugs, and many other articles. The teachers in the vocational department of the school are Miss Elizabeth Newman, H. G. Sutherland, Miss Ann Francis, and Mrs. Fred Faugust. Among the exhibits are leather belts of unusual workmanship made by boys in the high school.

Clyde Baker and Walter Huff of Andre and Andre Furniture Store are business callers in Chicago.

Scores Hurt in Minneapolis Strike

With more than twoscore injured and martial law threatened, rioting continues in the Minneapolis truck drivers' strike. Here is shown a clash between a special police squad and strikers who attempted to halt delivery of perishable food at the market district. The photo was snapped as deputies arrived to reinforce police in quelling warring pickets. Note the second man beyond the automobile hood with hands raised to ward off the blow. Five thousand drivers who walked out have been joined by 35,000 building trades craftsmen.

State Students to Start Home Friday

Commencements were held Thursday at the two state schools, and today the students, nearly a thousand in number, will depart for their homes to spend the summer vacation. The commencement at the School for the Deaf was held Thursday afternoon and last night the School for the Blind held similar exercises.

The main body of students from the northern part of the state will leave over the Alton at 5:45 o'clock Friday morning. Five special coaches and an extra baggage car are being attached to the regular train. Students from the Deaf will occupy three coaches and those from the Blind will have two.

Students residing in the southern part of the state will leave at 7:30 o'clock this morning via the Burlington. Those residing in sections not reached by local train service are traveling by bus, and some will of course be taken home in cars by their parents. By noon today both institutions will have discharged all students for the summer vacation.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

"AHEAD OF THE PARADE"

SOCIETY LAUDS OFFICIALS FOR DEATH OF PAIR

Arcadia, La., May 24—(AP)—Society wrote "finis" today to the criminal careers of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker—but two mothers mourned the loss of a wayward son and daughter.

Governor Allen, of Louisiana congratulated the six officers who ambushed and killed Barrow and his quick-shooting woman companion yesterday. A coroner's inquest held the officers did their duty.

The bodies of Barrow and Bonnie Parker—riddled with buckshot—were laid out in Dallas awaiting burial tomorrow.

The prayer of the mother of Barrow, ruthless killer, that she might see her son once more alive was not fulfilled as officers, led by the relentless manhunter, Frank Hamer, former Texas Ranger, put an end to his bloody trail.

Mother in Daze

The mother of Bonnie Parker fainted when told of the death of her daughter. She stood in a daze before the bier of Bonnie.

While the two mothers were incolable, other relatives and friends of the two slain bandits expressed relief at their end. Most of them agreed that their deaths by officers' gunfire were better than being taken alive. Barrow and his cigar-smoking companion, were brought down by a tip to officers from an erstwhile friend, who lured them into a trap. The pair thought they were going to join friends when they were suddenly attacked and riddled with fifty bubllets before they could raise their guns as they sped along a gravelled road a few miles south of here. This tipster will receive $2.500 reward offered for the man and woman bandits "dead or alive."

The bodies of the murderous pair were taken in their automobile to this town where they were laid out in an undertaking establishment and a curious public allowed to parade by to view their riddled corpses.

People are Curious

The town and country-side teemed with excitement and curiosity and thousands poured into town to view the sight. The parade of the public was not ended until Barrow's father and brother arrived from Dallas in two ambulances to claim the bodies. Officers heeded the plea of the father to stop the line of the curious.

Even after the bodies had been removed from the town, crowds of people stood about the streets discussing the killing of the man and woman who had ranged about the neighborhood for several days.

Hamer said he hated having to shoot a woman, especially while she was sitting down, but it was either hers of the officers' lives at stake. He said the officers gave them a chance to surrender before firing but when they elected to fight they had no other course except to shoot. Hamer said Barrow and Bonnie Parker were given more of a chance than they had given any of their victims, whom they usually shot down in cold blood.

Barrow, charged with twelve murders and more robberies, had been hunted for months by Hamer and a staff of assistants assigned to this duty alone. Bonnie Parker, who joined Barrow in his late crimes and stood by his side with a belching gun as he fought with officers, also was sought by the law. The pair had been trailed 15,000 miles over a half dozen states. They managed to elude arrests or shoot their way out of ambushes until they ran into the trap yesterday.

Separate Burials

The woman was identified by a tattoo on the thigh. She wore two diamond rings, a wrist watch and a holy cross around her neck under her dress. She was clad in a red dress, red shoes and had on a red and white hat.

Barrow had been wearing colored glasses, one lens of which was shot out. He had $507 on his person.

In the car in which the two came to their end was a veritible arsenal of machine guns, rifles, pistols and ammunition. Nestled among the weapons was a saxophone and sheets of music.

Separate burials will be held for the man and woman who had been inseparable in recent months. Barrow's mother objected to double funeral services in Dallas and demanded a separate service for her son.

The Rev. Clifford Andrews, of Dallas, will officiate at both services, however. Barrow will be buried beside his brother, Marvin, who was fatally wounded in a fight with police near Dexter, Iowa, last July. Bonnie Parker will be buried beside her niece.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Three thousand tons of ice were exposed today when fire destroyed a block long ice house in suburban Franklin Park. The ice was the property of the Milwaukee railroad. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

PLAN SPECIAL MUSIC SUNDAY AT GRACE CHURCH

The music at Grace church next Sunday at both morning and evening services will be specially attractive. At the morning hour of worship the mixed chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Barr Brown will sing for the last time until the fall season. The choir will sing the anthem, "Hear O Lord" by Watson, the solo part being taken by Homer Wood and the duet part by Homer Wood and Wayne Carter. A trio "Come Unto Me" by Ashford will be sung by Mrs. Arthur Shenkel, Mrs. S. G. Baker and Mrs. E. C. Roach. Miss Lillian Braden will preside at the organ.

At the evening hour of worship in the absence of the men's choir who sing at Virginia, three specially attractive musical numbers will be rendered by Mrs. C. R. Short and her daughters Mrs. J. A. Leitze of Murrayville and Mrs. D. W. McCoy of Springfield. "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" by Wells and "There Will I Follow Thee" by Ackley will be sung by the trio and the solo, "He That Dwelleth in the Secret Place" by MacDermid will be sung by Mrs. Leitze. Mrs. Gail Miller will preside at the organ at the evening service.

The highly efficient work of both the morning mixed chorus directed by Mrs. Wm. Barr Brown and the evening Men's Chorus directed by Mr. Howard Potter has been greatly appreciated by the membership and constituency of Grace church. The music committee has voted to continue both choirs next year. During the summer excellent music will be furnished without remuneration. Miss Lillian Braden who has been organist during the year, and Miss Miriam Havighurst will be the organists. Talented singers will also contribute their services each Sunday morning.

Obituary

John C. Fernandes was born January 27, 1863, in Jacksonville, Illinois, and was called home May 22, 1934. He was the son of Frank and Mary Fernandes, and was the last of his family, two brothers, Joseph and M. G., and two sisters, Mary and Justina, having preceded him in death. He received his education in the schools of this city and made his life work the carpenter trade, an occupation in which he engaged until ill health compelled his retirement several years ago. For a number of years he and his brother, the late M. G. Fernandes, were building contractors, and he later became a valued and trusted employee of Vasconcellos & Sons, serving as their foreman for many years. In 1890 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna DeFreitas, who survises him.

As his vocation in life was that of builder, even so he built his character, strong and dependable. His winning personality and sunny smile endeared him to his many friends, and the warm sympathy and kindly help given so freely, yet so quietly and gently, made his very presence a benediction. Few men so modest and unobtrusive leave as great an emptiness by their passing. His sincere affection and unfailing devotion will be a beautiful memory to the wife who mourns his loss. He was always ready with a helping hand to those in need; he always stood by in times of sorrow and gave of his time and his strength to help others. He was a true and loyal friend, a kind and helpful neighbor.

His nieces and nephews regard him with a respect and affection which make his death a deep, personal loss, keenly felt. In recent years those who knew him best noticed that his always ready smile came less and less often, and realized that he was facing eternity with the same quiet strength and courage he had always shown. His forgetfulness of self, his thoughtfulness of others, his quiet dependability, his honesty, and his sterling character are all too rare, and we can thank our Heavenly Father for His beautiful, helpful, inspiring life.

Our hearts are lonely, Uncle John,
Since you have gone away.
Our Heavenly Father called you home
One early morn in May.

Your memory we'll cherish e'er,
Your work on earth is done.
But we'll meet you with our loved ones There
At the setting of the sun.

FUNERAL NOTICE

Funeral services for Ermon Miller will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the Arthur G. Cody Funeral Home, with Rev. F. E. Smith and Rev. C. H. Thrall officiating. Burial will be in Jacksonville cemetery.

COUNTY PERMITS DANCING WHERE BEER IS SOLD

Commissioners Adopt Resolution Yesterday Amending Rules

The board of county commissioner, in session here Thursday adopted a resolution which permits dancing in establishments where beer is sold. The resolution affects only places in the county which are not incorporated.

The local city ordinance which outlines the regulations for the sale of alcoholic liquor provides that no dancing shall be permitted in establishments where alcoholic liquors are sold, an da resolution adopted resold, and the resolution adopted realso prohibited dancing where alcoholic liquors are dispensed. Thursday's resolution modifies this ruling and permits dancing where beer only is sold.

No reason was given for the amendment to the county liquor regulations, State's Attorney W. H. Absher stating he is now and has always been opposed to any regulation that would permit dancing where any alcoholic drings are sold.

HOLD PAIR FOR FAKE ACCIDENT

Boston, May 24.—(AP)—Ward Schoenfield, son of Frederick Schoenfield, former mayor of Jacksonville, Ill., the former's wife, Dorothy, were arrested today charged with the theft of $85 through a faked automobile accident.

Authorities charged Schoenfield and A. Merwin Holley, faked an accident here in 1933; that Holley stepped from the sidewalk in front of a car driven by Mrs. Schoenfield and claimed he had been struck. An insurance company paid $85 damage.

Henry Schoenfield was mayor of Jacksonville from 1893 to 1895. Under his administration the present City Hall was constructed and the Municipal Light plant built. Mr. Schoenfield was in the poultry business. The Schoenfield family moved to the east more than thirty years ago.

LIVESTOCK MARTS ARE VERY ACTIVE

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Livestock markets were active and extensive today. Hog receipts this week have not been equalled in point of volume in four months but prices have responded accordingly, dropping as much as 15 cents from last week's peak.

Today hogs broke five cents under the pressure of the fourth consecutive day of heavier arrivals than had been expected. Thirty thousand head were marketed and the top paid was $3.60.

Abnormally large receipts of swine here and at other marketing points reflects, traders said, the selling of drought-affected swine. The unfed and poor condition of hogs is mainly in the 140-145 pound weight and is low in meat values and yielding trifling lard poundage. On the whole swine this year are running about 10 per cent less in weight than a year ago. The average is about 251 pounds per head. The present dry weather run is coming from Iowa, Nebraska, parts of Missouri and Illinois.

Receipt of light cattle also continued heavy. Total run of all beeves was 7,000, which was less than expected but more than average for the day. Weighty offerings were fully steady and an extreme top of $9.35 was paid for heavy steers. Yearlings and light heifers were unevenly 25 to 3 cents lower.

Sheep receipts of 5,000 were half of what had been expected and fell below normal. Spring lambs were steady to easier but other classes averaged 25 to 50 cents lower.

CORN TAKES LEAD IN GRAIN MARKET

By John P. Boughan
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—Corn took leadership of the grain markets today, and rising 2 cents a bushel from early low figures dragged wheat prices out of a hole.

Big buying of corn futures was witnessed, and was attributed to government-sponsored agencies that were presumably handling a drought relief programme. The concentrated buying of corn followed liberal purchases yesterday for the same interest, and lifted the July delivery of corn to about 7⅛ cents a bushel today higher than the price at which immense government loans on cribbed corn were recently distributed to farmers.

Corn closed strong at particularly the day's top level, 1¼-1½ above yesterday's finish, wheat nervous, unchanged to ½ lower, oats unchanged to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to 1 cents down.

Millions of bushels of July and September corn futures were bought today in the course of the operations that were generally believed to be for drought relief purposes. Before the magnitude of the supposedly official purchase movement was apparent, the market temporarily dipped, responsive to showers that were reported over much of the corn belt and were looked upon as beneficial to crops. Later, however, traders who sold at this stage, switched their market position, and jumped whole-heartedly to the buying side.

An impression prevailed among corn traders at the close that relief buying of corn would continue intermittently, as this class of purchasing was still in progress when the final bell cleared brokers out of the pit. Comment, too, was heard that despite today's upturn of prices no increase of consequence had become apparent in country offerings of corn to arrive. In contrast with corn, oats trade was light, with prices held back by more favorable weather conditions for the oats crop.

Until rescued by corn strength, the wheat market tended downward, owing largely to substantial relief from drought in Nebraska, supplemented by fairly good rains at places in Kansas and other winter wheat states. Drought persisted nevertheless over spring wheat states, with no important moisture relief predicted.

Free marketing of hogs led to downturns in provisions.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES DULL

By Frederick Gardner

New York, May 24.—(AP)—Although the stock market took on a somewhat more robust tone today, the trading pulse remained extremely slow.

Lacking important news to arouse it from its lethargy, the market settled deeper into a rut and prices moved narrowly. The gain in the average price of 90 stocks, at 76.1, was only two-tenths of a point.

Volume on the stock exchange dwindled to 495,460 shares from 655,990 in the preceding session. A year ago, with the spring bull market going full blast, the daily volume was running eight to ten times that.

The major part of the share list regained fractions to 2 points of their losses of earlier in the week, among them American Telephone, American Can, J. I. Case, Eastman Kodak, Public Service of New Jersey, General Motors, Chrysler, Western Union, Santa Fe and Montgomery Ward.

After tilting upward early the stock market drifted along on even keel to a dull close.

Weekly federal reserve statistics showed a further decline of $37,000,000 in brokers' loans to $905,000,000 for the week ended yesterday. Commercial loans of New York City member banks rose $21,000,000.

Member bank reserves for the system increased about $73,000,000. Money in circulation declined $28,000,000 to $5,316,000,000 and was $192,000,000 below the total a year ago. Monetary gold stock increased $13,000,000 to $7,766,000,000.

DISMISS CHARGES IN TWO ROBBERY CASES

When the complaining witness against two negroes charged with highway robbery failed to appear in court Thursday morning, Justice A. B. Opperman dismissed their cases. The pair thus freed were Ernest Updegrove and Robert "Lumpy" Stewart.

Ten days ago the two were arrested on complaint of Otto Ferguson of near this city, who was held up and robbed near North Main street and Lafayette avenue. Ferguson said he identified both men.

His failure to appear at their prosecution, however, resulted in a dismissal of the cases.

UNDERWRITERS HERE WILL GO TO DECATUR

L. T. Oxley, president of the local Association of Life Underwriters, will be a delegate Friday and Saturday to the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Life Underwriters which will be held in the ballroom of the Decatur club at Decatur. Several other members of the association are also planning to attend and the party will include W. Barr Brown, vice-president; Bert Bundrun, secretary; Earl M. Spink, C. L. Rice, Mrs. Lillian I. Danskin, and Tom Duffner.

The convention will be held Friday afternoon and evening and all day Saturday. Hon. Ernest Palmer, state superintendent of insurance, will speak at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. The 11 o'clock address will be delivered by C. Vivian Anderson of Cincinnati, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

J. Hawley Wilson of Peoria, the state president, will preside during the convention sessions. John E. Cassidy, director of the National Emergency Council for Illinois, will deliver an address Saturday afternoon.

This is the first time a large group of local underwriters has attended a state convention, and it is hoped the experience will be of great benefit to the association here.

Former Ambassador to Belgium Dies in France; Heart Fails

Cannes, France, May 24.— (AP) — Brand Whitlock, former United States ambassador to Belgium, died here today.

Mr. Whitlock who was 65 years old, died at noon.

Ill for some months, he was taken to the Sunnybank English-American hospital March 5 and underwent a serious bladder operation at that time. He had been improving slowly and friends said they thought he was on the way to recovery.

A second operation was performed yesterday for the bladder ailment and the famous diplomat appeared afterward to be doing excellently, but his heart failed today.

Mrs. Whitlock was with him throughout his illness and beside him when he died.

Funeral services will be Saturday at Holy Trinity church and the burial will be in Cannes.

While these plans are incomplete, it was expected that the Belgian government will be represented.

Heart Gives Away

Mrs. Whitlock said, after her husband's death:

"Mr. Whitlock underwent a second operation and appeared to be doing excellently but, unfortunately, his heart was unable to stand the strain and gave way."

The operation was performed by a specialist from Paris.

Brand Whitlock, who won fame in the field of letters as well as diplomacy, was born at Urbana, Ohio, March 4, 1869.

In recent years he had been in poor health, spending much of his time abroad. He was seriously ill of pleurisy but recovered, only to be stricken the following year with an attack of shingles.

The death in February of King Albert of the Belgians, a close friend of the American for 20 years, was described by Mr. Whitlock as a "grievous calamity."

Because of his repeated appeals to Germany in the early days of the war on behalf of those condemned to prison or death he became known in Belgium as "Le Ministre Protecteur."

By prevailing on authorities not to attempt to defend the city against advancing German forces he was credited with saving Brussels and the king later thanked him for that action.

Numerous honors were showered upon him by the grateful Belgians and a boulevard in Brussels was named for him.

TRANSACTIONS PROBED

Chicago, May 24.—(AP)—The activities of Marshall Sampsell, former president of the Central Illinois Public Service company, during the days which preceded the crash of the Insull Utilities empire, were reported today to be under scrutiny by the grand jury.

The investigation was reported to concern alleged transfers of company stock as collateral for personal loans for Sampsell and Martin Insull, who was vice president of the company. Said to be of especial interest to the probers was a purported transfer of 4,000 shares of stock and the alleged deposit of them in Chicago and Springfield banks.

Waverly shoppers in the city yesterday included Mrs. R. Y. Gibson.

Attempt to Squelch Hints of Filibuster

By D. Harold Oliver

Washington, May 24 — (AP) — By a threat to put the senate on a 12-hour working day, the democrat leadership sought today to squelch any attempt at a filibuster against the tariff bargaining bill.

Rumors reached majority leader Robinson that one or two members were "trying to perfect an organization for a filibuster."

He said he was prepared to bring pressure to end any such move speedily by prolonging daily sessions.

"If that is the intention we will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning and stay until 8 o'clock at night," He said. "And if that doesn't work we'll come here at 9 a. m. and stay till the same hour in the evening."

Minority leader McNary said "none of the fellows" on the republican side was involved in an embryo filibuster. He declared they were ready to vote as soon as general debate ended.

Indications today were that the final vote would not be taken till next week despite a possible Saturday session.

The democratic leadership objected yesterday to a republicans demand for a peek at the trade agreement negotiated by the state department with Colombia last December.

Democrats responded that the department would be willing to let the senate see the treaty if Colombia consented, but they preferred letting the matter drop until after the bill passed.

FILES DAMAGE SUIT

Pana Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Miss Tilly Carlock has filed a $30,000 damage suit in federal district court at Springfield against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co. for the death of three members of her family.

Her father, Thomas Carlock, and two sisters, Mrs. Stella Spinner and Mrs. Inez Kelly, were killed here in February when hit by a passenger train.

GYPSIES GET MONEY

Belleville, Ill., May 24.—(AP)—Two gypsies are charged with swindling John Atzinger out of $931 given them to bless with the expectation it would double for him.

The gypsies' legerdemain appeared to multiply dollar bills in demonstration, but in practice resulted only in quick disappearance of his roll, declared Atzinger.

"I TAKE THIS WOMAN"

SYNOPSIS

Stanley Paige, beautiful, young society girl, is left penniless when her lawyer speculates with her money and loses. Stanley, however, cares little for the money, feeling that she has everything in the love of fascinating Drew Armitage. But when Drew breaks their engagement saying it would be impossible to marry on his income, she is heartbroken. Rather than accept aid from her wealthy friends, Stanley rents a cheap furnished room and disappears from her exclusive circle to try and make her own way. Her friends agree that a better way would have been to marry handsome Perry Deverest, but Stanley cannot forget Drew. One day, she meets John Harmon Northrup, struggling young author. A strong friendship ensues and they become very necessary to one another. John Harmon is in love with Stanley but refrains from telling her because of Drew. Stanley meets Marcia Wingate, one of her old set. Marcia tells Stanley she will arrange a dinner party and get in touch with her, but Stanley does not believe that Marcia will call her.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Stanley's thoughts left Marcia and swung around to Perry. Her eyes grew softer, her mouth more gentle. It would be good to see Perry again, to sit opposite him at a tea table, to have him smile at her out of half-closed caressing, blue eyes. It would be good to dance with him again, to feel his arms about her, move with him across a dance floor. And suddenly there in the surge and rush of Madison Avenue, with the noises of the street pressing about her, with dusk settling over the city and softly subduing the high, sharp outlines of the skyscrapers, with only a narrow ribbon sky above her head and a narrow place to walk beneath her feet, suddenly she knew a great and overwhelming desire to feel again the caress of soft silk against her firm young flesh, to hear again the throb of violins, the tinkle of ice against thin glass, the blurred sound of feet moving over a polished floor. To smell again the fragrance of hothouse roses, the elusive scent of expensive and subtle perfumes. To know the exhilaration of being young and beautiful and desirable against a background of careless youth and seductive music.

Her breath came quickly and as quickly became quiet. She had left that sort of thing behind. She had gone on to something else. All that belonged to a girl who had been terribly young and rather beautiful and who had loved Drew Armitage. All that belonged to a girl who had lived in Alita Lawson's Park Avenue apartment and poured tea before a slow-burning fire. All that belonged to a girl who had gone up into the hills with the wind in her face and a great joy in her heart. It most surely did not belong to a girl who needed a winter coat, who would soon be looking for a job and whose heart knew little, perhaps, of joy, but much of peace.

Stanley found a nickel in her pocketbook, went down the steps and into the milling chaos of a five-thirty subway crowd. She was carried along with an avalanche of people into a downtown express. She found a strap and clung to it. There was something satisfying about clinging to that metal strap—it made her part of the swaying, jostling throng, it tried her young strength and was a challenge to her sense of balance. Tonight, for the first time, she gloried in it. A hot rebelliousness died somewhere within her, a dumb feeling of frustration left her — she relinquished them gladly. She clung to the strap. She belonged.

Nigel Stern found Dennis St. John smoking innumerable cigarettes and looking bored and vicious in one corner of Gerda Lessing's black and gold drawing room.

"I don't see why I come to these cocktail teas," she scowled, grinding her cigarette against thin glass. "The men are stupid and the air is poisonous. Let's get out of here, Nigel. I only came because I thought Drew might be here. He's in town again, for a week or two."

"I thought perhaps that was the reason. Still interested in the unattainable Drew?"

"I've never been able to catch the trick of his profile. It's his profile that's so wonderful, you know, Nigel. He's no better than lots of handsome men — caught at any other angle."

"I don't know whether you're serious or not," observed Nigel in his light impersonal voice, "but anyhow it's an answer. Where are we going?"

"Oh, I don't care—down to your place, if you want to."

"By all means. I bought some etchings the other day, Dennis, they're rather good." He touched her arm caressively.

They went out together. It was just six o'clock. A slow dusk was settling over Park Avenue. It touched with tranquil fingers the high, aristocratic fronts of the apartment houses, gave them less of arrogance, more of beauty. Somewhere Marcia's beige car was threading its way insolently through the traffic — somewhere Stanley was clinging to a subway strap. On the bottom step of Mrs. Foley's boarding-house John Harmon was waiting, as usual, his hands in his pockets, his eyes on the corner.

He saw her when she was still a block away. There was never any mistaking the swing of her slim tweed coat, the angle of her close little hat. Even at a distance there was something distinctive about her, something different. He sprang to his feet, crushing back all the sweet, wild emotions that surged over him at the sight of her. Since that day on the beach he had denied their existence, had forced himself into a matter-of-factness he was a long way from feeling. He had not forgotten—but he had gone on as if he had. That was the secret of it, to go on exactly as though there was nothing in the world but friendship and mutual understanding, ignoring this other thing which was so impossible and so compelling and so terrifyingly real.

He met her halfway down the street, his coat collar turned up, his hands still plunged in his pockets. "We're celebrating tonight," he told her joyfully, tucking her arm through his. "Gay Set bought 'Who Kissed Linda,' and it'll come out in the April Review. We're three hundred dollars ahead in actual cash and one million in high spirits. Where do we eat?"

"What you need," observed Stanley severely, frowning at his apparent effort not actually to shiv... "is a new overcoat."

"Well, I'm a darned sight nearer one than I was yesterday," he told her with a grin. "I'd been trying to sell 'Linda' for so long I'd lost all faith in her. She seemed a fickle little thing and who cared who kissed her anyway? But Norris over at Gay Set seemed to think differently, so she must have been quite charming after all. Tomorrow I shall buy an overcoat—in the meantime we're going to celebrate."

"Let's go over to your place and get dinner ourselves—have you any wood for a fire?"

"Three bags full!"

"Fine! What shall it be? A steak or some of those marvelous sausages——"

"But aren't you too tired to mess around?" His eyes belied the concern in his voice. He hoped awfully that she wouldn't be.

"I'd love it. We'll get an apple pie and some pickles and some cheese——"

"And I'll make the coffee—I've discovered a new kind — wait till you smell it!"

They made their purchases and walked the block and a half through the crisp October dusk, loaded with parcels.

John Harmon pushed open his door, which he never locked, and dumping his armful of bundles onto the table lighted a fire already laid in the black marble fireplace.

With a checkered apron, which they kept for these occasions, tied over her office dress, Stanley began efficiently opening the packages. They had decided finally on sausages, and in a few minutes they were sizzling fragrantly in a pan, while coffee bubbled gently over a second gas burner.

"Some day when I'm very rich I shall buy a percolator," announced John Harmon, as the amber liquid bubbled over and put out the gas flame.

"That," said Stanley quickly, "would spoil everything."

"Being very rich?"

"Of course not, stupid—making coffee in a percolator!"

"So middle-class, you mean?" grinned John Harmon, pushing his typewriter onto the floor and setting the table with a miscellaneous collection of dishes, bought as necessity demanded at the ten-cent store.

"Exactly," agreed Stanley.

The room was quiet for a space. The fire burned briskly on the hearth, the sausages sputtered in their pan. Stanley, standing over them with a fork in one hand, a pickle in the other, said suddenly, "You know, this room has lots of possibilities — it just cries to be fixed up."

"It certainly cries for paint!" agreed John Harmon feelingly.

"Soft ivory paint, a dull green floor, chintz curtains at the windows, a couple of big wing chairs, some pewter candlesticks with tall blue candles, an old maple desk, a big divan with lots of cushions, some flowers in blue bowls, a few pictures on the wall, a singing kettle on the hearth——"

"That's not a room you're describing," interrupted John Harmon huskily, "that's a home." And knew he shouldn't have said it.

"Yes, I know," Stanley answered quietly and turned a sausage expertly. She had learned a lot about cooking—and other things—from John Harmon.

"By the way, I've lost my job," she told him later, when they had finished eating and were having their cigarettes and coffee. Stanley had the one and only comfortable chair and John Harmon sat on the floor in front of her, his long legs sprawled out to the leaping fire.

"The other girl is back again," she explained briefly.

"I hate to think of your looking for a job. I wish things were—different." He did not look at her, he looked into the fire.

"How different, John Harmon?"

"Oh, just different." John Harmon shrugged and laughed a bit awkwardly. "What are you going to do about it—the job, I mean?"

"I don't know, exactly. I'd thought of part-time governess — teaching French and music, I suppose."

"But you'd hate that sort of thing!"

"Of course, but I'm not keen about office work for that matter, and the other would pay better."

"Don't you ever want to go back?" John Harmon was lighting a cigarette. There was a blur of smoke before his eyes. "To where you came from?"

"No."

"But you'd get away from all this."

Stanley interrupted him with a short little laugh. "Don't talk like Valerie," she told him, "and don't be so sure I want to get away 'from all this.' I certainly don't, not on the terms I'd have to go back on."

"You mean?"

"Marriage or charity—both equally impossible."

"Yes, of course."

"So if you don't mind too much, I'm going to stay right here."

PAUL M. ANGLE IS SPEAKER AT I. S. D. COMMENCEMENT

Graduating Exercises Held at Deaf School Here Thursday

Paul M. Angle, librarian of the Illinois State Historical Library, delivered the graduating address at the Illinois School for the Deaf, yesterday afternoon, before an audience of parents, friends, teachers and students which filled the large auditorium.

A delightful program of music was given by the I. S. D. band, preceding the entrance of the graduating class at the Deaf school. Rev. George Flick of Chicago, pastor of the Episcopal church for the Deaf, offered the invocation, which was followed by the salutatory. This was skillfully given, signed by Chester Hart and read by Virgil Rowlette.

Managing Officer Daniel T. Cloud in his introductory remarks spoke of Mr. Angle as one possessing historical information which few have acquired and as an authority he is in great demand.

In his address Mr. Angle brought to the minds of the audience the inspiration of the events of history and particularly that of Illinois. The speaker recalled the early French explorations of the Mississippi river which brought the white man into the Illinois territory and inaugurated the history of Illinois. He spoke of this period as "A century of priests, fur-traders, forts, garrisons and villages." These he said were established in the vicinity of St. Louis. Mr. Angle brought out vividly the struggle between the French and British and the passing of the Illinois country into the hands of the British. Later during the revolt of the colonies, the speaker called attention to the daring, romantic and decisive victories by George Rogers Clark at Kaskaskia and Vincennes in the period of 1778, which he said saved Illinois from being a part of the British Empire.

As a State in 1818 the line of settlement changed by increased population from the South and East. The speaker emphasized the importance of the Black Hawk war, stating that in its consequences events were far reaching. It marked the beginning of Chicago, he said, and within a year from that time the growth of Chicago was marked as rapid.

In connection with his statements of note worthy events in the history of Illinois the speaker referred to the young captain, Abraham Lincoln, who was living in New Salem about this time. Who later became a lawyer through his own efforts and became favorably known in many courts in Illinois. In his informal and formal debates with Steven A. Douglas he became a figure over the entire state. Other men in the state should be mentioned as personalities worthy of study; Steven A. Douglas, a far-sighted patriot, Ulysses S. Grant, general, statesman and president. In the world of invention, John Deere by his glow stimulated industry, Jonathan Baldwin Turner of Jacksonville, sponsored the State University movement, which extends over the United States. Cyrus Hall McCormick perfected the harvester in 1831, which gave an astounding incentive to agriculture.

Mr. Angle emphasized the point that in the years to come, during leisure time, the study of the history of Illinois would give to the student romance, adventure, interest and instruction filled with inspiration.

Following the address, the song, "Mispah" was charmingly and skillfully given by a group of students, Audrey Early, Chester Hart, Carrie Switzer, Virgil Rowlette, with Miss Amelia DeMotte as reader. The valedictory was effectively given, signed by Audrey Early and read by Eleanor Pope.

At the close of the valedictory, Mr. Cloud conveyed to the students the regrets of Director A. L. Bowen of the State Delfare Dept. who could not be present. Mr. Cloud expressed his confidence in the graduates and his personal pleasure on this occasion. In the absence of Mr. Bowen, Managing Officer Daniel T. Cloud presented the diplomas as the graduates were presented by the principal, A. L. Archer.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. George Flick and the recessional followed closing the exercises which were outstanding in the history of the school. The graduates were:

Ralph Eugene Brasel, Jacksonville; Robert Lee Burke, East St. Louis; Claude Jefferson Campbell, Winchester; Audrey E. Early, New Douglas; Sherin Easton, Chicago; Chester Grover Hart, Rockford; John A. Kelly, Chicago; Charles Arthur Ledferd, Jacksonville; Arnold Bernhart Lindoerfer, Rockford; Louis Francis Mesojedec, Chicago; Edward Andrew Mirus, Chicago; Fred Pedigo, New Holland; Eleanor Pope, Dowell; Kenneth Arthur Reedner, Springfield; Virgil L. Rowlette, Galesburg; Carrie Adeline Switzer, Pekin; Fred LaVerna Vehmier, Freeport.

I. S. B. GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS HERE LAST NIGHT

Paul M. Angle, of Springfield, is Speaker at Commencement Program

A large audience assembled in the chapel at the School for the Blind last evening for the Commencement exercises, which included a program of unusual interest for the parents, friends and alumni.

An organ prelude, Grand Choeur, Gawelak, beautifully given by George Gerlach, preceded the invocation, which was pronounced by Rev. Frederick Foster, pastor of the Methodist church of Nauvoo, Illinois. The violin number, "The Old Refrain," Kreisler, played by Frederick G. Meyers, delighted the audience with its sympathetic interpretation, pure tones and skillful rendition.

The speaker of the evening, Paul M. Angle, was introduced by Managing Officer Robert W. Woolston, as one of rare historical attainments and that through his office of secretary of the State Historical society and that of librarian of the State Library, he was unusually qualified to bring a message of great value to all present. Mr. Angle had been a guest of both the School for the Deaf and the School for the Blind during Thursday and he spoke at the graduating exercises of the Deaf in the afternoon upon the subject, the "History of Illinois." Upon this subject with its inspiring message he also spoke in the evening to the graduates of the school for the Blind. He stressed the explorations of the Mississippi river, which brought the French to the Illinois country with its resulting civilization culminating in villages, noteworthy in Illinois history, as Kaskaskia, Vincennes, Fort Massac. The speaker paid tribute to George Rogers Clark and his achievements in saving the Illinois territory. He also spoke of the great statesmen, educators and inventors. The speaker drew lessons from these great personalities, urging that more time and study be given to the wonderful history of the state.

Following the address, the American Legion awards were made by Victor Sheppard of Post No. 279. He stressed the great significance of the traits of good citizenship, saying that the awards were given for honor, courage, character, leadership and service. Mr. Sheppard presented a certificate, button and a bronze medal to Leonard Tristano, as the student selected for the honor. For the American Legion Auxiliary Mrs. Louis Hieronymus presented to Mary Welter a certificate, button and bronze medal for good citizenship, patriotism, charter and high moral standards.

At the close of this beautiful ceremony Hon. A. L. Bowen, director of the State Welfare Department, was introduced. Mr. Bowen spoke briefly of the splendid history of the Blind as a school, saying that the institution and that of the Deaf in Jacksonville were established many years before the state had its public school system. He paid tribute to Samuel Bacon and other in Illinois who were farsighted in this noble work.

After his remarks Mr. Bowen presented the diplomas and certificates in vocation work to the graduates.

As the final number to an outstanding program the Ensemble, Ave Maria, Schubert, was most beautifully rendered by Miss Armeada Woods, soprano; Guy Snell, piano; Frederick G. Meyers, violin; Miss Alice Mathis, organ.

The graduates at the School for the Blind are as follows:

Victor Norman Gulbrandsen, Martha Ann Hard, Beulah Irene Mathews, Vandalyn Clair Senz, Elsie Gretchen Stanberry.

Certificates in Vocational Training: Elmer Joseph Christen, Willard Ice, Carl A. Aents, Beulah Irene Mathews.

SHOTS FIRED INTO BEER TAVERN PASS CLOSE TO OWNER

Unknown Gunman Shoots 7 Times In Coffman And Wilson Place

Seven steel jacketed bullets, two of which knocked plaster off the wall, were fired into the beer tavern operated by William Coffman and Harry Wilson, at 221 North Sandy street at 9:30 o'clock last night, narrowly missing several men who were seated or standing near some tables at the rear of the room. Working on clues supplied by the owners of the place police last night were searching for an unnamed person for questioning.

Two of the bullets, fired from an automobile as it was driven slowly along an alley which runs east and west off North Sandy street, crashed through the room where the men were sitting, narrowly missing William Coffman, and several patrons. The bullets lodged in plaster about six inches above the head of a man seated at a table, and were estimated to have passed close to Coffman as he stood facing the table. The other six bullets struck the exterior of the brick wall, gouging deep holes, or passing through windows which were in the back room of the place.

Police, who came from the police station, located only a block away, retrieved six of the bullets, and later found an exploded cartridge from a .38 caliber firearm.

No Reason for Attack

The owners, when questioned by the police, stated that they knew of no reason for an attack with the exception of an incident which happened earlier in the evening. They told the police that they had refused to serve one person who came into the tavern, and that they had been threatened with the remark that this person would "close up their place." The unnamed person is also said to have warned the owners that he would return later in the evening.

No credence was given to the report that the gunfire was connected with a beer war which has been raging here recently.

Mr. Coffman, telling about the shooting last night, said he was standing near the side entrance. He heard the report of a gun, in the alley, and then another report, wood splintering, and a thud as something hit the wall across the room. He said he "ducked" quickly behind a partition, and then there were two more reports, and another bullet struck the plaster across the room from where he was standing. There were four more reports as the car moved down the alley.

Investigating later, Mr. Coffman said he found a mark in the brick wall where the first bullet struck, another mark in the doorway where a bullet struck part of the door frame, ripped through it and crashed into the wall on the other side of the room. The third shot struck the brick wall, and the fourth cut a neat hole thru a screen and window pane, and crashed into the wall about three inches from where the second bullet imbedded itself in the plaster.

Continuing along the wall, holes were discovered at about five foot intervals showing where the other bullets struck as the person or persons who operated the firearm continued firing.

Police were unable last night to find anyone who saw the machine enter the alley, and were unable to trace its movements after leaving the scene of the shooting. Night Captain Everett Mann assigned officers Smith and Strawn to the case immediately, and they began a search for the person who was ejected from the tavern earlier in the evening.

SOUZA WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE FOR LABOR OFFICE

It was with much surprise that delegates to the Jacksonville Federation of Labor, Thursday evening heard the announcement that President Charles E. Souza would not be a candidate to succeed himself next month when his term expires. Souza, who has been head of the local federation for 23 terms gave as the reason that due to his many activities he has been advised by his physicians to cease some of them.

He has long been identified with labor, fraternal and civic affairs, and holds many honary positions.

There was a large attendance at the meeting.

A delegation from the Boot and Shoe Workers was present.

A number of communications were read, among them from the Labor Department in regard to wages paid on CWA and PWA projects.
